FEAR OF NEW STRIFE GRIPS UN DELEGATES

Speech by Molotov Believed Likely To Create Additional Tensions.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Oct. 30 — Fears of new tensions between Russia and the Western powers over atomic controls, disarmament, the veto and other critical issues swept through many United Nations assembly delegations today as diplomats from 50 other member countries debated the challenging policy speech hurled into the assembly by Soviet Foreign Minister Vyacheslav M. Molotov.

The Soviet leader topped off his speech with a four-point arms reduction program, including a request for action by the assembly to try to get the United States to stop making atomic bombs.

American and other major delegation members were reported considering what response they might make to this as well as to various charges laid down by Molotov in blunt, sometimes harsh, language.

Warren R. Austin, chief United States delegate, had an opportunity to respond to the Russian leader today. He was scheduled to speak during the second of two assembly sessions but aides reported he almost certainly would not revise the main body of his address.

Prepared In Advance

It was prepared before Molotov tossed his oratorical bombshell in a lively session last night, and reportedly deals in a conciliatory vein with the veto issue and other UN constitutional problems.

Molotov assailed Winston Churchill as a "prophet" of "aggressive imperialist circles" in America and Britain and blasted Bernard Baruch, U. S. member of the UN atomic commission, for allegedly holding a "militant philosophy" leading toward a "new aggression."

He attacked the American atomic control plan as designed to give this country an atomic monopoly, asserted abolition of the veto would wreck the United Nations, and demanded a UN report on American and British troops in foreign lands. Capping off his address with the four-point arms reduction plan, he urged the assembly to act on it at once. This produced one of the most dramatic incidents in the assembly to date.

Molotov had spoken in Russian. When he finished he had to wait through two long translations of his 7,000-word speech, one into English, the other into French. When the interpreters finished, assembly President Paul-Henry Spaak of Belgium asked if there was any more business before he adjourned the session. The hall was already largely empty.

Molotov Demands Discussion

Molotov sprang suddenly to his feet, and said: "The Soviet delegation calls on the other delegations to express their views on disarmament."

The other delegations were

UN Military Staff To Maintain Peace If Nations Disarm

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Oct. 30—If Russia's proposal for universal disarmament should be accepted by the world, the cost of drafting a complete plan would fall on the United Nations military staff committee, the group charged with setting up an international army to maintain peace.

The committee, an arm of the security council, is composed of the chiefs of staff of the United States, Russia, Great Britain, France and China.

The charter provides that this group shall advise the council on questions relating to "the regulation of armaments and possible disarmament."

During the past eight months of sessions the committee has worked without notable results on the preliminary plan for its global police force.

While Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov did not discuss this point specifically in his address to the assembly, persons close to the committee consider that his proposal for universal abolition of armaments by all nations would mean the United Nations itself would have air, land and sea contingents to maintain peace and security.

With all nations disarmed, it was apparent that these forces need not be large.

FINAL FUND REPORT MEETING TONIGHT

Workers Hope To Meet Goal of $67,190.

Workers in the Marion Community Foundation's financial campaign today are on the last lap of their job of raising $67,190 to finance the foundation's agencies for 1947, in preparation for the final report meeting scheduled for 6:30 o'clock tonight at the Masonic temple.

High hopes, backed up by "shoulder to the wheel" work on the part of the campaigners, are, that the goal will be reached by tonight's meeting, and reports made at the foundation headquarters are favorable, the figures show. Everybody is doing his or her job in a grand way is the word from headquarters.

E. L. Cleveland, president of the foundation, will preside for the general meeting and the reports will be in charge of J. J. Stafford, campaign chairman. The reports will be broadcast over WMRN at 7:45 o'clock.

JERUSALEM RAILWAY STATION BOMBED

By The Associated Press

JERUSALEM, Oct. 30—Three bombs, planted by tommygun wielding youths whom police described as Jews, exploded in Jerusalem's central railway station today.

The explosions came about an hour after the youths stormed the station from two taxicabs in a hail of gunfire with the explosives.

The station had been evacuated before the blasts.

A road mined which police said was set by the Jewish underground exploded under a military convoy here earlier today, wrecking two army trucks, killing two soldiers and injuring 10.

Troops and police launched a search immediately and soon announced discovery of a "fairly large" cache of illegal weapons in the Jewish settlement of Givat Shaull, just outside the city. A curfew had been clamped on the settlement Oct. 9, after a similar explosion on a nearby road.

Jerusalem's curfew orders were amended to extend from 6 p. m. until 7 a. m., rather than from 6:30 p. m. to 5:30 a. m. The curefew was extended to include the Nahalot Shimon quarter, a Jewish area where the attack occurred.

Another outbreak of violence was reported from the all-Jewish city of Tel Aviv, where four armed men robbed two Polish cashiers of $2,000 in a daring street holdup.

FACES MARIJUANA CHARGE

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Oct. 30—Warren G. Higgs of Piqua, O., will be tried in federal court here Nov. 7 on charges of conspiring with 14 other men to violate the marijuana act of 1937. Higgs was released on $1,000 bail yesterday by Judge Simon H. Rifkind after pleading innocent, and given permission to leave the jurisdiction of the court pending trial.

Something New About Russia

First public intimation that the Russians have secretly made solid offers to U. S. military government officials for the economic unification of Germany is revealed today in The Star's editorial page article by Joseph and Stewart Alsop. The Washington commentators reveal this as the most important practical development in Soviet foreign policy in recent months. It is the first indication of a possible change in the Russian front.

Pamphlets Outline Need For Higher School Revenue Here

This is one of a series of four articles on the critical situation existing in Marion's public schools because of the extremely low salaries paid teachers and emphasizing the imperative need of the two-mill special tax levy which is to be submitted to voters in the election Tuesday, Nov. 5.

Approximately 10,000 pamphlets urging passage of the two-mill tax levy for Marion schools are now being distributed to Marion residents in a house-to-house canvass by Parent-Teacher association units in the local school district.

The levy, which comes before Marion voters Nov. 5, is an effort on the part of the school board to boost salaries of Marion teachers out of the cellar position which they now hold in comparison with other schools in the state of corresponding populations.

It is estimated the levy, which would run for four years, would yield approximately $82,000 a year. About 80 per cent of the money raised would be used to increase teachers' salaries, with the remaining going to offset increased cost of textbooks, fuel, supplies, maintenance and other such expenditures.

The pamphlet, printed by the Marion Civic Planning association, states briefly the present financial condition in Marion schools, and compares salaries paid Marion teachers with those being paid in other cities in Marion's population bracket.

High Pay Necessary

The pamphlet maintains that if Marion is to retain its present high standard of teaching personnel, it must raise teachers' salaries. If teachers' salaries here are not increased, the pamphlet reads, "we lose our better teachers—other cities are paying up to 48 per cent more than Marion does. If we lose them, they will, of necessity, be replaced by an ever-lowering standard of instructors. This is not fair to our present teachers—but is vastly more unfair to our Marion children."

Distribution of the pamphlets follows meetings of P.-T. A. officials, school representatives and members of the Civic Planning association, during which plans were drawn up to acquaint the voters of Marion with facts concerning the two-mill levy. Meetings have been held in each elementary school district of the city, instructing P.-T. A. workers on how to conduct the canvass.

Campaign Under Way

As the P.-T. A. representatives conduct their door-to-door campaign, they are urging Marion residents to vote for the levy and leaving with them a copy of the Civic Planning association's pamphlet. The campaign began last week and will continue through this week.

The school levy ballot will be one of three ballots handed Marion voters when they go to the polls Nov. 5. Persons will register their vote on the issue by placing an "X" in the space provided at the left of "For the tax levy," or "Against the tax levy."

One of the seasons for the heavy registration of voters this year is believed by officials of the Marion county board of elections office to be due to residents' interest in the school issue. A heavy vote on the issue is expected. Official registrations this year totals 17,258, the largest it has been since 1940, and considerably larger than in the presidential year of 1944, when the total figure was 15,879.

WHITE HOUSE SILENT

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30—The White House withheld comment today on Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov's speech to the United Nations general assembly yesterday calling for worldwide reduction in armaments and a ban on the atomic bomb.

Police Make Final Plans Today For Halloween Party Thursday

Police were working today on final plans for the Halloween parade and party they are providing tomorrow night for Marion young fry.

E. H. Hoffman, chairman of the prize committee, said more than $600 worth of prizes are ready for the masqueraders.

The parade forming committee, under L. W. Shadaker, has mapped out the following route for the paraders. The head of the parade will move off from West Center and Prospect streets at 7:30 p. m The parade will move up North Main street, over East Fairground street and into the fairgrounds by the southwest gate. It will enter the track at the northwest corner, file in front of the grandstand, and then gather, maintaining its line of march, in the infield.

Each grade group will then be called up before the judges stand in front of the grandstand to be judged.

The parade will form on West Center street at 7 p. m. with the head at West Center and Prospect streets. Placards will indicate where each grade group is to form. Only school pupils within the city are eligible for prizes.

The parade will be led by the Buckeye Aerie of Eagles No. 327 band. Following will be school children from the first to eighth grades. After them will come the Harding High school band and then St. Mary and Harding High school students.

The Eagles band will play at the fairgrounds. Also furnishing entertainment will be the Chuck Wagon Pals. The program will be broadcast.

Members of Co. M, Ohio State Guard, will aid in traffic management. Admission to the fair grounds and grandstand is free.

300 Youngsters At Y Halloween Party

The Y. M. C. A. second floor gymnasium bulged last night with more than 300 Marion small fry, who attended the Y's Halloween party.

William Green and Miss Donna Clark, in charge of arrangements, said they expected about 100 youngsters, of grade school age but managed to squeeze the extras in.

The kids were awarded prizes for costumes. About half of them were in costume. They saw a motion picture starring Rin Tin Tin Jr., ate doughnuts and popcorn, and were on their way home by 9:15 p. m.

Truman To Defer Comment as Government Weighs Coal Crisis.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30—President Truman probably will defer until after the election any statement on the future of the governments wage stabilization board, Presidential Secretary Charles G. Ross said today.

The status of the board—reportedly headed for the scrap pile—came up at a news conference during a discussion of the coal situation, slated for a showdown Friday when government officials meet with John L. Lewis, who is demanding a new wage contract for his 400,000 United Mine Workers.

Ross told reporters he had no comment on a report that Attorney General Tom Clark disagreed with the position of Interior Secretary Krug that the existing coal pact could not be reopened as Lewis insists.

In response to questions, Ross told his news conference he considered it "unlikely that Mr. Truman will clarify the status of the wage stabilization board" before he returns next Wednesday from Independence, Mo., where he will vote in the congressional elections.

Strong Argument Seen

Careful study of the miners' present contract reportedly convinced some government lawyers that Lewis has a strong argument to support his contention that he is entitled to reopen the entire question of wages, hours and other matters. By contrast, Secretary of Interior J. A. Krug has maintained there can be no question of a new contract and only the present working agreement with the government can be discussed.

Some officials privately expressed belief that coal mines administrator N. H. Collisson, pinch-hitting for Krug at the Friday conference, might offer another type of concession than actual wage increases. Krug himself is away on a western inspection

OPA Removes Price Lids On Items From Radios To Funerals

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30—OPA yanked price lids off a host of things ranging from radios to funerals today as the agency rushed final paper work on its "master" decontrol list.

The emphasis today was on small items that go into furnishing a home. The next list will apply largely to business and industrial goods. Its scheduled Friday announcement may be delayed.

In addition to radios of all types, price ceilings ceased to apply last midnight to electric phonographs, kitchenware and glassware, lamps and small electrical appliances, all clocks and scores of other types of "consumer durable goods."

The agency said all things on the three-page list either were in balance between supply and demand or unimportant to business or living costs.

It emphasized that ceilings still remain on household mechanical refrigerators, washing machines, electric ranges, vacuum cleaners, cooking and heating stoves, floor coverings as well as all major items of furniture and bedding.

Among the other electrical items also freed because of big output are irons, heaters, non-automatic toasters, shavers, heating pads and portable lamps other than those used by industry.

Most pots and pans also were decontrolled for the same reason along with such varied items as funeral supplies, including caskets and burial vaults, wheel chairs and crutches, and farm and garden tools.

ARMY TO AID GERMANS

By The Associated Press

STUTTGART, Oct. 30—Moving to avert winter hunger and possible food riots, the U. S. army today stepped into Germany's transportation crisis with a promise to provide army trucks and drivers to collect food and feed. German authorities asserted that the lack of trucks was threatening a partial breakdown of the entire economy of the U. S. occupation zone.

Doors Slammed Second Time In Less Than Two Weeks.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Oct. 30—The nation's principal cotton exchanges suddenly were slammed shut today for the third time in less than two weeks after the price of King Cotton had tumbled by an extreme of more than $50 a bale.

The New York Cotton Exchange acted swiftly this morning, only a few minutes before trading was to open. The New Orleans and Chicago exchanges followed immediately. The Dallas, Tex. exchange refused to close.

Frank J. Knell, president of the New York Exchange, said only that "numerous requests have been received from shipping centers in the cotton belt, pleading for a temporary suspension of trading in cotton futures to allow for an orderly survey of the spot situation in the south."

Move To Prevent Panic

In an apparent move to prevent panic selling by hard-hit cotton producers, the department of agriculture in Washington issued a statement that the cotton crop was in a "favorable statistical position."

The disruption of cotton trading in the last two weeks has been all but unprecedented.

On Oct. 8 cotton for delivery in December was selling at a 26-year high of 39.13 cents a pound. At the close of trading yesterday it had hit a low of 29.15 a pound, a drop of approximately $50 a 500-pound bale.

The liquidation of a single "long" account, in which a New Orleans trader was reputed to have held contracts for hundreds of thousands of bales, was held officially responsible for the original cotton break.

Thomas Jordan, who earlier had made millions in the New Orleans cotton market, has refused either to confirm or deny that he was the trader concerned.

Arrangements were being made today for the sale of Jordan's seat on the New York Stock Exchange for $64,000.

After all exchanges were closed on Saturday, Oct. 19, to arrange for the liquidation of the single long account—more than 150,000 bales then remaining unsold—the cotton market rallied.

Starts Another Tumble

However, after another closing last Saturday to allow dog-tired clerical workers to catch up with their work, the market suddenly started another tumble.

Official or quotable reasons for this drop have been conspicuous by their absence. One reason advanced for this unusual silence by brokers was that a congressional investigation already was under way in Washington, at the instance of Senator Thomas (D-Okla.) Originally he had charged a bear raid on the market.

The effect of the sharp price breaks has been profound, particularly in the south.

Rep. Sparkman (D-Ala) told reporters in Washington today that the slump was "completely demoralizing". He said it had "ruined thousands of farmers, ginners, bankers and cotton merchants, not just speculators."

Meanwhile, the cotton textile market boomed last week to chalk up the heaviest sales for a similar period in the last five years. The initial drop in raw cotton prices and announcement that textile ceilings would remain unchanged in November, despite this drop, generally were held responsible.

Heavy Speculation In South Blamed For Cotton's Drop

By The Associated Press

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 30—Speculation by "farmers, merchants, doctors, and everybody else all over the south" was blamed here today for the collapse of the cotton market.

An authoritative source said the break which has sent futures tumbling more than $50 a bale in recent weeks "is the same thing that always happens sooner or later in a speculators' market."

"When the speculators are shaken out of the market—and they're being shaken out—prices will be stabilized on a basis of supply and demand," he predicted. "But speculation, rather than supply and demand, has been the basis of recent prices."

The informant, who is close to all phases of the cotton industry in the deep south, painted this picture of the situation:

"Farmers, merchants, doctors and everybody else all over the south have been speculating in cotton futures. A banker in a Louisiana town says many farmers mortgaged not only their crops but their farms to get in on the rising market. I know of a town in Mississippi where everybody and his brother was playing the

OPA EXTENDS RENT CEILINGS

88 More Areas with 3,500,000 Population Brought Under Curb.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30 — A wide extension of rent ceilings effective Nov. 1, was announced today by OPA.

The agency announced that 88 more rental areas with a total population of more than 3,500,000 will be brought under rental ceilings Friday.

Eighty-one of these areas are being controlled for the first time while rent ceilings are being restored in the remaining seven.

At the same time the Bluefield, W. Va., area will be extended to include Boone, Fayette and Summers counties.

These 88 areas had a total of 323,549 rental units in 1940, OPA said.

The agency said that the new additions bring the nation's rental areas up to 650 and that "few additional areas will require controls because today's list covers those in which rent pressures have been mounting since the war."

Government officials said they have been watching rents throughout the country since the end of the war and that the housing shortage "has been becoming more acute."

They said that action in many of the areas going under ceilings next month resulted from appeals or petitions by local officials.

"Increasing employment by local industry, return of veterans and their families have concontributed to the housing shortage in most areas," they said.

Included in the new ceilings are 23 college towns where the return of veterans and students has aggravated housing shortages.

The areas and the maximum rent dates which fix allowable rentals, include:

Ohio — Chillicothe rental area consisting of Ross county—Jan. 1, 1946.

19-YEAR-OLD MOTHER OF 2 BOYS SENTENCED

Will Suspend Term If Soldier Husband Works Out Problem.

A 19-year-old Marion mother was sentenced to a year in the Girls' industrial school at Delaware today by Juvenile Judge Oscar Gast on a charge of contributing to the neglect of her two sons, one two years and the other four months old.

The girl's husband, now in the Army, expects to be discharged Friday and the judge told the girl he would suspend her sentence if a "satisfactory agreement" could be worked out on his arrival home. The young mother was returned to the Marion county jail and her two sons taken to the Marion county detention home pending arrival of their father.

Charges against the girl were filed by Ralph E. Carhart, attorney for the Marion County Humane society.

Former Army Cook Faces Judgment

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Oct. 30— The man before Municipal Judge Matthew D. Bieringa delayed entering a plea to a disorderly conduct charge by asking: "How's your health, now, your honor?"

Judge Bieringa took a second look at the defendant and recognized him as John Andreviak, 31, a buddy of his World War I army days.

"Since you haven't been coming for me," Judge Bieringa said, "my health has been fine."

Then he dismissed the charge.

BOY, 3, KILLED UNDER CEMENT TRUCK WHEELS

Lad Dies as He Darts Away from Grandfather on Sidewalk.

Three-year-old Theodore Lee Reid, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Reid of 141 Blaine avenue was instantly killed at 1 p. m. today when he was struck by a concrete-mixing truck on West Center street just west of the Pennsylvania railroad tracks.

Walking With Grandfather

Police said the boy had been walking on the south side of West Center street with his grandfather, Ed Reid, when he suddenly broke away and ran into the path of the west-bound truck.

The rear wheel of the truck ran over the boy's head, crushing his skull.

The body was taken to the Boyd and Uncapher funeral home by ambulance.

Green Camp Driver

The truck is owned by the Ohio Blue Limestone Co. and was driven by Walter V. Crowe, 18, of Green Camp.

The boy was born Oct. 8, 1943, in Marion. He has one brother Philip. His parents are members of Epworth Methodist church. Mr. Reid is employed at Universal Cooler.

State Realty Heads at Marion Meeting

The Marion Real Estate Board, at a dinner meeting last night at Hotel Harding, entertained several officers of the Ohio Real Estate association.

Present were Chauncey Howell of Akron, president of the state association, I. C. Jackson of Columbus, vice president, and LeRoy Parsons of Columbus, executive vice president. Another guest was Riley Smith of Springfield, a trustee of the National Home and Property Owners Foundation.

Mr. Howell was principal speaker. He told of his work as a member of the executive committee of the National Real Estate association in Washington in regard to changes in OPA rent controls.

Other guests also spoke and Mr. Smith told of the foundation's effort to form a national group of home owners for their mutual benefit.

Thirty members of the Marion board attended the meeting.

Railroad Men Lose Seniority Court Tilt

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 30—Certain employes of the Pittsburgh and Lake Erie Railroad lost their fight for higher seniority rating today when the Ohio supreme court refused to consider their appeal from Mahoning county court decisions.

The seniority dispute arose from the merger of management of the Pittsburgh and Lake Erie company and the Lake Erie and Western Railroad in 1932. Employes of the latter were transferred to the rolls of the former on a basis approved by the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen. About 90 of the older employes of the Lake Erie and Western were dissatisfied with the seniority rating given them on the Pittsburgh and Lake Erie's rosters and sued in Mahoning county court for better rating. They lost in all the courts.

TODAY'S YOUTH

Knowledge of World Needed By Young People of Future

The following is one of a series of six articles dealing with the problems confronting today's children, which should be of interest to every American parent who hopes for a better world tomorrow.

By KATHARINE LENROOT
Chief, U. S. Children's Bureau
Written Exclusively for Associated Press Newsfeatures

WASHINGTON—In the days ahead our young people are going to have to live in a much smaller world than the one we now know. They will have to meet and deal with people of many races, many religions, many cultures, and many political opinions.

There will have to be give-and-take all up and down the line, not as between superiors and inferiors, but between equals. Our young people will need the knowhow that is based upon a genuine interest in other people and a willingness to learn from them.

How well are we equipping them for such a role?

The schools, it seems to me, have the major responsibility. Parents, too can help. Their own attitude is an important factor. They are, however, not the only ones influencing their children, and for that reason they should be on the alert to combat a superpatriotic attitude whenever it makes itself evident.

When, for instance, a boy or girl makes a bland statement that the Chinese are thus and so, or the Russians, or the English, offer counter-evidence, if it is at hand, but if not, appeal to the young person's good sense. What would he think if he heard an Englishman, or a Russian, or a Chinese make such a statement about what all-Americans are like? Parents can also put in the way of their children books and other materials that will stimulate an interest in other people.

The importance of cultivating in youth a friendly and interested attitude in other peoples cannot be stressed too much. Our boys and girls are going to have to take part someday in international undertakings of many kinds, either themselves or through their chosen representatives. Leadership will be drawn from all kinds of people living under all sorts of conditions. Only those who can understand new ways and different ways will be able to make a contribution.

Bird Who Came To Dinner and Stayed Four Years, On Spot

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Oct. 29—Charlie, the pigeon who came to dinner and spent four years, has just about outlived his welcome on one Cleveland rooftop.

It's really not so much Charlie though, Fred A. Miller points out, as the company he keeps—and brings home with him.

Right now, his list of cronies numbers 30, and Miller, Charlie's benefactor, says that's too many.

Four years ago Charlie lost his way and landed on Miller's garage roof. Miller made a pet of him and things went fine for a while.

Then Charlie began bringing his pigeon friends home, and like their pal, they stayed on.

Thirty of them now use Miller's roof for quarters and his best efforts to get them to move on have gone for naught.

"What shall I do?" he asked today. "If I shoot them I'll be arrested for discharging firearms. If I try to poison them, the wrong parties might get the poison. And I don't want to have to buy a new roof."

YOUR HEALTH

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

Empyema

Infection in the chest cavity resulting in the formation of pus has, in the past, nearly always meant a difficult and perhaps hazardous operation.

This condition, known as empyema, may be produced by any one of a number of germs—pneumococcus, streptococcus or staphylococcus. Usually, large quantities of purulent fluid collect around the site of the infection. This infected material must be drained off and, heretofore, this has usually been done by opening the chest wall.

Today it is often possible to treat this condition without operation and, like so many other present-day advances in medicine, this new treatment has been made possible through the new wonder drug, penicillin.

According to Dr. Maxwell Finland of the Harvard Medical School, treatment with penicillin is fully successful if the empyema is caused by the germs mentioned above.

A hypodermic needle and syringe are used to remove pus and fluid from the chest cavity by suction. Penicillin solution is then injected directly into the cavity. Of 250 patients receiving this treatment, two-thirds recovered.

The penicillin is given every 12 to 24 hours during the first and second day of treatment and then at longer intervals, depending on the changes which occur in the fluid. In other words, if the fluid becomes less purulent, the treatments are given at longer intervals. If the lung is also affected, penicillin may be given by injections into a vein or muscle.

Salt solution may be injected into the chest cavity to aid in withdrawing the thick fluid which forms in empyema. Three injections of penicillin into the chest cavity, in most cases, were sufficient to cause a disappearance of the germs producing the difficulty. Continued treatment brought about a cure within three to six weeks.

Most of the germs which cause empyema are more susceptible to penicillin than they are to the sulfonamide drugs. The action of the penicillin is not interfered with by the fluid in the chest cavity and it rarely, if ever, causes any reaction. It does not irritate the lining membrane of the chest cavity of pleura.

Even in those cases where this treatment does not bring about a cure, it brings about improvement in the patient's general condition so that, later on, operation may be more safely performed. Thus, empyema seems to be one more of the disorders which has responded to the wonder-working drug, penicillin.

Union Co. Lawmaker Finds Horses Dangerous

MARYSVILLE, Oct. 30—State Representative Clifton Caryl of Union county is now firmly convinced the auto is here to stay because horses and buggies are too dangerous.

Caryl tumbled from his seat to the street and a buggy wheel went over his chest. The only injury was a bruise that will make Rep Caryl uncomfortable for several days while driving his auto.

ATTORNEY GENERAL ON PROGRAM HERE

Jenkins Talks to Rotary on Ohio Government.

Hugh S Jenkins, attorney general for the state of Ohio, chose as his topic, "What Ohio Means To You," in a talk to members of the Rotary club and guests in the club's weekly meeting at the Hotel Harding, Tuesday.

He reviewed the history of his office, starting with the Ordinance of 1795, which created the office of chief prosecutor and continuing with various changes to the present time, until now it is the largest legal office in the state, serving 87 bureaus, boards and commissions, having 40 attorneys on its staff.

Mr. Jenkins said the attorney general is a member of 13 state commissions, legal consultant to the Ohio general assembly, and legal advisor to the officials of the state on matters pertaining to their office.

He explain how the every day life of an Ohio resident is under the influence of the state government. From the time an Ohionan rises in the morning until retiring at night, the state government has levied taxes on, inspected or in some other way applied official measures to practically everything he has done.

He stressed the importance of citizens ascertaining the qualifications of persons running for political offices.

William Ehrick, Rotary program chairman for October, introduced the speaker.

New members introduced were John C. Turner Jr. and Edwin P Ferguson.

Guests of the club were E D. Sargent of Toledo, Virgil Anderson, in charge of pupil personnel Mairon County schools; B. L. McGraner of the Chesapeaket and Ohio railroad; A. E. Ashelman and N. O Wagner of Columbus, Paul D. Michel and Charles E Cox of Marion.

James Ainey was reporter from the Harding High school journalism class.

Los Angeles Woman Marks 103rd Birthday

By The Associated Press

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 30—Mrs. Amanda Wilson, who has outlived all but two of her six children, was joined today in celebration of her 103rd birthday by 16 grandchildren, 27 great grandchildren and five great great grandchildren.

The centenarian says she still makes her own bed, helps in the kitchen and rinses out her own lingeries, whistling while she works. She told photographers she'd pose for them sitting in a rocking chair "when I'm 110."

She was born in Greenbriar county, West Virginia, in 1843, the year the first telegraph line went into operation in the United States.

GUESS AGAIN—IT'S A BOY. Despite the long wavy locks, Jimmy Garvin (above) 13, son of Mrs. Margaret E. Garvin of 20 Bryant street, N. W., Washington, and a Langley Junior High student, is all boy. He wears his hair that way because he wants to; hasn't had a hair cut since he hacked his own when he was two-years old. He is a star on his school football team, plays baseball and does what other 13-year-old boys do.

CURBS REMOVED ON GLASS CONTAINERS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30—The civilian production administration, stepping up its removal of wartime controls over industry, ordered the elimination today of all restrictions on the manufacture and design of glass containers.

The agency announced that it is revoking order L 103 which has restricted glass bottle and jar shapes and sizes to the patterns made in 1942.

Meanwhile, highly placed officials reported that CPA Chief John D. Small soon will revoke order L-99 which "freezes" cotton looms to the production of specified minimum amounts of essential fabrics.

CPA said the removal of controls from glass containers was ordered because a reasonable balance of supply has been achieved throughout the industry, with manufacturers reporting backlogs of orders down to removal.

HUNT IS ON FOR TRIO IN ESCAPE

Leader of Three Criminal Insane Overpowers Guard in Break.

By The Associated Press

LIMA, O., Oct. 30—Three fugitives from Lima State hospital for the criminal insane, one of them described as "dangerous," were hunted by authorities today.

The trio escaped over the institution's west wall after attacking an attendant in what appeared to have been a well-planned break, Supt. R. E. Bushong reported.

He identified the fugitives as:

Truman Rogers, 32, committed by Mahoning county common pleas court last July 22 following his indictment on charges of kidnaping and robbery.

Jeffrey Thrasher, committed by Cuyahoga county common pleas court until restored to reason following indictment on burglary charges.

Harry Zubraski, 32, of Cleveland, a transfer three years ago from the feeble minded institute at Orient.

Rogers Called Leader

Dr. Bushong said Rogers, held insane prior to his commitment following the indictments, appeared to be the leader in Monday night's break. Dr. Bushong described him as "dangerous."

All three fugitives were inmates of a "strong ward" where some of the most dangerous men are confined, Dr. Bushong said. He gave this report of the break:

Attendant H. G. Hopkins went to the third floor and was followed and overpowered by Rogers, who took his keys and locked Hopkins in a room. The attendant said he was threatened with death if he made an outcry.

Thasher and Zukraski meanwhile had drifted to the south end of the second-floor day hall. They were joined by Rogers and all three slipped unnoticed to the ground floor.

Unlock Storeroom

The trio then unlocked a storeroom door and obtained a chair and coat rack which they used in scaling the west wall.

Hopkins, still locked in, sounded the alarm but it was too late for other attendants to prevent the escape.

All three were wearing civilian clothes but Rogers may not have had shoes, Dr. Bushong said.

Sheriff William R. Dailey and state highway patrolmen threw a cordon about the hospital grounds but the three escaped without leaving a trace.

Russian Recommended For Nobel Peace Prize

By The Associated Press

OSLO, Oct. 30—Director August Schou of the Nobel Peace Prize Institute said today that Mme Alexandra Kollontay of Moscow, former Russian minister to Norway and Sweden, had been recommended as a candidate for the Nobel peace prize for 1946 but declared the committee had not yet met to choose the winner.

He was commenting on a report published by the Copenhagen newspaper information that Mme Kollontay would receive the prize for 1946 in recognition of her work which led to Finland's getting out of the war before Germany's collapse.

FLOOD HITS UTAH, NEVADA

By The Associated Press

SALT LAKE CITY, Oct. 30—Snows and rains which have drenched Utah and Nevada for three days moved northeast today leaving in their wake washed out railroad tracks, stranded hunters and stockmen, damaged crops and broken telephone and power lines. Workmen for the Union Pacific railroad rushed repairs on two points of the main line between here and Los Angeles after washouts followed what was described as the worse flood conditions in .5 years near Caliente, Nev.

Truman Passes Up Home Town Rally

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30—President Truman will pass up a Democratic rally at his home town of Independence, Mo., Friday night, the White House said today.

House Speaker Rayburn will be the principal speaker at the rally.

Presidential Press Secretary Charles G. Ross told reporters that Mr. Truman will spend Friday night with his mother and sister at their home in Grandview, Mo.

Asked if Mr. Truman's decision not to attend the political meeting ruled out the possibility of a Presidential speech before next Tuesday's election, Ross said:

"It rules out the possibility of a speech Friday night."

Rayburn will accompany the President and Mrs. Truman when they leave here by train at 3:30 p. m. tomorrow for Independence, where they will vote Tuesday.

CIVIL ACTION SEEKS DISSOLUTION OF CBS

By The Associated Press

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 30—A $33,063,048 suit seeking dissolution of the 169-station Columbia Broadcasting System was filed in federal district court today against CBS, five of its officials, the Schenley Distillery Corporation and Schenley Distilleries, Inc.

The civil action was brought by Sam Morris, Dallas, Texas, evangelist and active campaigner against the use of alcoholic beverages, and Henry M. Johnson Louisville lawyer and president of the Kentucky Sunday School association.

The suit also named as defendants Jacob Paley, his sons, Samuel Paley and William S. Paley, Isaac Levy and his son, Leon Levy, identified as exercising a controlling interest in the Columbia system.

The petition accused Columbia of "unjust discrimination in not selling time for abstinence broadcasts by Sam Morris, the designated spokesman for the anti-liquor drinking forces." It alleged that requests for broadcast time had been made "repeatedly" and in each instance refused.

The petition said the broadcasting system, meanwhile, had shown "unlawful discrimination in favor of Schenley and its allies and the commercial beer and wine interests" in selling them "the choicest radio time, on Columbia stations and network, to broadcast their appeals to drink beer and wine. . ."

The broadcasting firm, the petition continued, "at the same time, illegally, unjustly and unfairly discriminated against plaintiffs and the abstinence forces of this nation, and refused to sell any time whatever to them for broadcasting messages advocating the non-drinking of beer and wine."

Plane Flight Helps Ashley Pair Observe Golden Anniversary

Special to The Star

ASHLEY—Mr. and Mrs. Earnest Fleming celebrated their golden wedding anniversary at their home south of Ashley Sunday. A buffet luncheon was served at noon. The afternoon was devoted to visiting. Little Beverly Dye sang several numbers accompanied by her aunt, Ann Wire at the piano. An exciting event occurred, when Max R. Norris a friend of one of the guests, landed his plane, in a field, back of the home, and took several of the guests up over Ashley and vicinity. Mr. and Mrs. Fleming were first to go.

REPORTS COLLISION

Tired, "All-In"—Listless Feeling Brought To Halt

As Vibrant Energy is Released To Every Muscle, Fibre, Cell

Do you get up in the morning still tired, feel down-and-out all day? Have you checked-up on your blood strength lately? Overwork, undue worry, cold, flu or other illness often wears down the red-blood-cells.

Every day—every hour—millions of tiny red-blood-cells must pour forth from the marrow of your bones to replace those that are worn-out. A low blood count may affect you in several ways: no appetite, underweight, no energy, a run-down condition, lack of resistance to infection and disease.

To get real relief you must keep up your blood strength. Medical authorities, by analysis of the blood, have by positive proof shown that S.S.S. Tonic is amazingly effective in building up low blood strength in non-organic nutritional anemia. This is due to the S.S.S. Tonic formula which contains special and potent activating ingredients.

Also, S.S.S. Tonic helps you enjoy the food you eat by increasing the gastric digestive juice when it is non-organically too little or scanty—thus the stomach will have little cause to get balky with gas, bloat and give off that sour food taste.

Don't wait! Energize your body with rich, red-blood. Start on S.S.S. Tonic now. As vigorous blood surges throughout your whole body, greater freshness and strength should make you eat better, sleep better, feel better, work better, play better, have a healthy color glow in your skin—firm flesh fill out hollow places. Millions of bottles sold. Get a bottle from your drug store. S.S.S. Tonic helps Build Sturdy Health.

Prisoner Sentenced After Bold Break

By The Associated Press

MIAMI, Fla., Oct. 30—A 26-year-old California parolee who confessed he took $48 in a theater robbery here was sentenced to 10 years in state prison yesterday shortly after he made a bold break for freedom.

Paul E. Pritchett was sentenced in criminal court by Judge Ben C. Willard two hours after he had escaped from the court house by sliding down a rope made of a torn sheet—only to be caught a block away.

A block from the courthouse, Pritchett ran into Policeman Leon Hall who had aided in his arrest and recognized the prisoner.

With Pritchett in the break was Clifton Fugate, 22, of Cincinnati, who was being held on auto theft charges. He escaped.

LAST RITES SET FOR FAMED STATISTICIAN

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Oct. 30—Brig. Gen. Leonard P. Ayres, noted economist and statistician, will be buried with full military honors in Arlington, Va., national cemetery at 3 p. m. Friday.

His body will be placed on a train tomorrow following funeral services at 2:30 p. m. in Plymouth church in suburban Shaker Heights.

The man who correctly forecast in September, 1918, that World War I would end in the second week of November that year died yesterday at his home following a heart attack. He was 67. He was one of the few economists who, on the eve of the 1929 crash, viewed it as the beginning of a major depression.

General Ayres, who served the government as statistician in both World Wars, was widely quoted as editor of the monthly business bulletin published by the Cleveland Trust Co., of which he was a vice president and executive committee member.

For his service to the government, he was eulogized last night by Secretary of War Patterson in a telegram of sympathy sent to Mrs. W. Randolph Burgess of New York, Gen. Ayres' sister.

"Gen. Ayres performed distinguished service in the United States Army in two World Wars," Secretary Patterson said. "His contribution to the national defense was an outstanding one. In his death the nation has lost a gallant and faithful soldier."

Banker's Secretary Amassed $150,000

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Oct. 30—A woman who worked 23 years as a banker's secretary amassed a modest fortune estimated at $150,000 through investment tips from her employer, probate court records showed today.

She was Miss Winifred E. Treat, who died Oct. 13 at her East Cleveland home at the age of 80. Her will, filed for probate yesterday, named 51 legatees—none of them immediate relatives.

One beneficiary said Miss Treat acquired her fortune through investments made on the advice of her employer, the late Joseph R. Nutt Sr., Cleveland banker, and through salary savings.

Miss Treat's will made four bequests of $10,000 each. Others ranged from $1,000 to $5,000.

BRITISH PRESS PROBE SEEN MOVING AHEAD

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Oct. 30 — An early start was predicted today for a government investigation of the "finance, control, ownership and management" of the British press, ordered by the house of commons last night after six hours of bitter debate.

British newspapers greeted the probe authorization today with such words as "sinister," "fearful," and "intolerable" and the Daily Mail declared the inquiry constituted "the first stroke in the murder of freedom."

Dividing generally along party lines, the house voted 270 to 157 to establish a royal commission empowered to inquire into all phases of newspaper operation. Many British papers have been outspoken in their criticism of the labor government's domestic policies—criticism strongly resented by the government.

Well-informed sources said a six or seven-man commission to be named soon would include no members of parliament and no working newsmen, although it might include some prominent former editors. It will have, with power of subpoena, the right to investigate news agencies and periodicals as well as London and provincial dailies and weeklies.

The British Press Association said it understood the commission would be directed to:

1. Inquire into monopolistic tendencies of the press.

2. Investigate finance, management and ownership of the press.

3. Assess the influence of advertising on the presentation of news.

OHIO CAMPAIGN IN FINAL WEEK

G.O.P. Hammers New Deal; Democrats Warn of Disaster as Elecion Nears.

Ohio swung into the final week of political campaigning with Republican leaders hammering at the New Deal and top Democrats insisting that a G.O.P. victory next Tuesday would mean inflation leading to depression.

At a Hamilton county Democratic rally in Cincinnati last night, Sen. Claude Pepper of Florida saw in the nation's record registration for the Nov. 5 balloting an indication that "the people are aware of the reckless Republican bid for power, and there is a determination spreading to repulse the threat to the domestic and foreign policies of Franklin D. Roosevelt."

"People are awakening to the danger of Republican reaction driving us into another era of inflation and depression, another dose of dollar diplomacy and imperialism," said Pepper.

Urges Huffman Re-election

Urging re-election of incumbent Sen. James W. Huffman, Pepper declared that "the people of Ohio agree with the people of the nation that one Taft is enough. They are not likely to vote to send a poor imitation to the senate."

From the same platform with Pepper, Jack Kroll, national director of the CIO-PAC, asserted that the country was on "the road leading to sky-rocketing Republican prices" and depression.

U. S. Sen. Robert A. Taft (R-Ohio) and John W. Bricker, Republican candidate for senate, "are pursuing a course which, if not arrested, will impress the Communist philosophy upon more American minds than any propaganda from abroad," Kroll declared.

"The time to fear Communism," Kroll continued, "is when millions of our people stand in breadlines, when our factories are closed, when our manpower is idle."

At Dayton Bricker declared in a radio address that the Truman administration had made a "dismal failure in its duty" to provide veterans housing and had permitted "fraud on the veteran" in the disposal of surplus property.

"Our veterans have many just causes of complaint regarding administration of the veterans' law," Bricker said, adding that a Republican platform pledge to "end mal-administration of veterans laws and the abuses that have gone hand-in-hand with it x x x will not be forgotten."

He declared millions of veterans returned to civilian life to find that under a Democratic national administration "a land of free people and individual opportunity and great economic productivity" had become "a land in which the veteran can't buy anything . . ."

"Controls and high taxes" discourage the veteran from going into business for himself, and as a wage-worker he frequently "can't work because of a strike in some other plant or industry hundreds of miles away," Bricker said.

His opponent, Senator Huffman, told a Martins Ferry Democratic social club rally "the national economy is safe, so long as the nation is prosperous and there is the ability to supply goods."

"Compared with the period following World War I," Huffman said, "we are in an era of unprecedented prosperity."

Huffman advocated a long-range housing program "on a nation-wide scale and under federal direction, because otherwise helpful action is too likely to be sporadic and uncertain."

The gubernatorial campaign was carried by Republican candidate Thomas J. Herbert to Ironton Tuesday night while Gov. Lausche his Democratic opponent, spoke in Cleveland.

Bulgaria's Free Election

RECOGNITION of the Bulgarian government to be formed out of last Sunday's popular approval of the Communist-dominated Fatherland Front will be determined by the United States and Great Britain on a basis of the election's conduct. They will demand proof that it was a free choice.

For the American judges, this is a ticklish thing to judge. Bulgaria is under Russian domination. Its people are naturally sympathetic to Russia. Their country retained diplomatic relations with Moscow even during the war, when Bulgaria was on Germany's side.

There also is the difficulty, for an American, of knowing what constitutes a really free election. In this country we have a political monstrosity called the Solid South, which is another name for a section of the nation ruled by a one-party system. There is no such thing as a free choice of political candidates under a one-party system.

There also is a political arrangement in the United States called a machine, which means that in heavily-populated areas voters are delivered to the polls like animals to a stockyard. In a startling demonstration of machine voting in Kansas City this year, a candidate who did not have the backing of the machine's boss, a politician named Pendergast, was counted out by proportions that made a travesty of free elections. In the United States also are such peculiarities as poll taxes that bar some electors from making any choice at all, election fraud scandals that occasionally land overzealous political crooks and fixers in jail, and ingenious arrangements whereby voters are brow-beaten into supporting one party as against another by threat of reprisals.

Free elections are easier to talk about than to achieve even in the United States. Things would have had to be pretty bad in Bulgaria last Sunday to justify an American critic in throwing the first stone.

Henry Wallace's Battle

IN HIS first big speech since leaving the Truman cabinet, Henry Wallace has attempted to establish himself as the leader of something he calls a "progressive" movement inside the Democratic party.

This is, of course, his privilege. His fellow citizens of all political persuasions wish him luck. They want to see the Democratic party come to terms with its own internal confusion.

If it is going to follow Wallace—and Wallace's followers—they want to know what it is following. But they are fed up with trying to figure out what it is following when it makes a practice of riding off in all directions.

A vote for a Democrat has become a vote for Bilbo at one extreme and Wallace at the other. They both call themselves Democrats. The real Democrats, who seem to have lost the right to protect their party name, are being lost in the confusion. Whenever they assert themselves, which isn't often any more, they are so busy trying to explain their bedfellows that they don't have anything to say about themselves.

There are a lot of fights to be settled inside the Democratic party. If pre-election signs mean anything, a lot of voters are in favor of helping the party straighten itself out by retiring its badly-confused representatives from public office.

Trojan Horse for Wage Earners

THE No. 1 national headache is organized labor's threat to close down production to bludgeon employers for more pay to meet increased living costs. It will start throbbing in earnest as soon as the election is over. Tieups in coal, steel and automobiles, all basic industries, are imminent.

The wage pattern which may be established in these industries will become the pattern of most other industries. If organized labor repeats its tactics of a year ago, when it hitched its welfare wagon to inflation, there will be another spurt of price boosting to upset stabilization.

A few warning voices inside the unions have been reminding workers that higher money wages are meaningless without stabilization. Labor has been destroying its own wartime savings by contributing to inflation. It has been cheapening the dollar, destroying the buying power it has been trying to obtain. If wage rates now could be stabilized and efficiency of production increased, prices would be stabilized—and that would be the beginning of a golden era for labor.

The warning voices might remind workers of something else about the higher-prices-higher-wages equation. It can become a Trojan horse in the camp of labor unions. If the equation is sound when prices are rising, it is sound when prices are falling. Union negotiators will not always have an inflation balloon to help them get more. Eventually, their problem will be to keep from taking less, on the claim that wages should go down when prices go down, because unions themselves claimed that wages should go up when prices went up.

News Behind the News

By PAUL MALLON

The Moscow Budget Difficult To Understand.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30—The news dispensing agencies have been carrying intermittent stories the past two weeks, out of Moscow, suggesting sharp slashes have been made, or are to be made, or transferred, or something, in the Russian budget.

The biggest story presented the picture that the Russian Parliament had reduced defense expenditures from 138 billion rubles in the war years 1944-45 to 70 billion rubles, which did not leave a very clear picture of the exact situation as, presumably, the figures refer to the budget for next year and last one's, and not this one or any current details.

This befuddling has become practically a budgetary astigmatism for the world at large as the same dispatches pictured the total over-all Russian budget as being increased by 12 billion rubles—presumably increased over the war years.

There have been yarns since then suggesting the size of the Russian Army has been or will be cut. In fact, in all visible Moscow governmental news dispensing ways, the theory has been presented to us that Russia is going on a peace basis.

They Make Comparisons

One American commentator has figured out, for instance, that the Russian budget contains only 21 per cent of its total expenditures for military purposes—while we, the United States, are spending 31 per cent of our total annual outlay this year (1946) for the military. We should reduce, he cries.

Some good peace advocates in this country are similarly coming to the fore demanding somewhat along the same line that we cut our budget drastically. The press of bewildering events has called even Mr. Truman to make some passing public reference to similar economy upward, and actually, on the inside, his budget people have been making the most thorough investigation they could to ascertain what is going on.

My information is this government received nothing at all official on the subject, but has been forced to ascertain what little it can get from the same confusing news dispatches which are plainly misleading a vast section of the public. But this much more the government knows:

A Russian budget is a loose system, looser than ours, so loose in fact that even after all the expenditures are made, no outside expert can possibly ascertain the actualy details for which money was expended.

All the Russian budget is good for, if you can actually get a real one through the iron curtain—not just a news dispatch—is to give you a vague review of what the Kremlin wants to give out.

But the situation really grows in ridiculousness the deeper you go into it. Russia calculates only in rubles. There are three values for rubles. They vary roughly from 10 rubles to 1 American dollar, which is a black market rate, and therefore the most widely used, down to 5 for 1 for the diplomatic corps and then on down to 3 to 1 (latest figure heard authoritatively here for the rate, carried on the books although no one would pay that much for a ruble if he can buy one in the black market at 10 to 1.) In any event, you do not know how much a ruble is worth—and by you, I mean anyone.

No Sound Calculation

You simply cannot make any sound calculation whatever on the basis of existing knowledge, particularly in view of the low standard of living in Russia. Prices and costs of things differ so widely in the two countries as to make armament figures worthless. You simply cannot tell how much armament they have in rubles.

For another thing, the Kremlin applies appropriations to conceal them. They appropriate so much for a factory, for instance. This factory may be making a war material, but its appropriations are carried under general manufacturing.

Vast military sums now are reported lately to have been switched to scientific research, and this course would permit all such vast sums to be spent in the guise of manufacturing. So Russia's civil expenditures also cover arms.

For a large section of the people of the United States to advocate definite American budget action upon the basis of such intangibles—and they are doing it every day—is rather serious folly.

To achieve disarment will be a long, meticulous task and a duty for us all, and for our officials. But anyone who would believe the stuff which has been handed out to us lately, or propose to act upon it, should be led away by the hand.

If John L. Comes Can Winter Be

Indian summer is officially over. John L. Lewis has demanded reopening of the mine workers' contract.

Old Beetlebrow has a remarkable sense of timing. His annual ultimatum always coincides exactly with fall's first freeze.

He's long ago replaced wild geese as the best barometer of snow.

Threat of a coal strike worries everyone except a few vindictive landlords who'd like to do the same thing to their tenants that OPA did to their rents.

With meat decontrolled and the cost of living higher than a flagpole sitter's dandruff, some expected John L. to present his demands earlier this year. But I figured all along the old boy was too smart to compete with the world series for page one.

As it was, that careless Wally liked to have crossed him up, leaving her jewels lying around.

Vets' Insurance Dividends

By ROWLAND EVANS JR.

WASHINGTON—The Veterans Administration (VA) has announced that virtually all former and present holders of National Service Life Insurance (NSLI) are entitled to a dividend.

The NSLI fund out of which all non-service connected death benefits are paid has a surplus. The surplus belongs to holders of NSLI policies.

But VA officials are scared to death that news of the dividend will bring a flood of mail VA's insurance staff is already loaded with work.

VA statisticians must check 18,000,000 policies held by the 15,000,000 servicemen and veterans.

That will take at least a year. When the computations have been completed dividends will be mailed out. VA points out that each letter asking about the dividend will delay the computations, because each letter must be answered. It takes time that might be put to figuring the dividends.

The amount of the dividend will depend on three things.

1. The amount of insurance taken out.
2. The age of the insured.
3. The length of time the insurance has been carried.

VA will not attempt now to estimate the amount of the dividend, but says it will be about equal to dividends paid by commercial mutual companies.

The dividend is payable not only to veterans and servicemen whose insurance is in good standing, but also holders of lapsed policies. Ten million veterans allowed their NSLI to lapse. Almost all these will nevertheless come in for at least a small dividend.

Reassuring

By The Associated Press

BOGOTA—Sign posted inside local street-cars: "Don't be alarmed if this car leaves tracks or the control gets on fire. There is no danger to you."

Another Idea

A city authority to buy and develop parking lots is being devised for White Plains, N. Y. American Public Works Association reports that creation of the authority requires state legislation. It would be made up of five persons appointed by the mayor and would issue bonds to meet expenses. The group would take over development of a newly-devised cordon of metered parking lots around the central business district and provide for new bus terminal facilities to reduce traffic congestion.

Off-street metered parking in a ring of parking lots near the business district, tried last winter experimentally, is believed by city officials to be the answer to many of White Plains' parking problems. In addition to easing the basic parking dilemma, the method compels residents of other communities to contribute parking fees to help defray street and parking maintenance costs.

An authority similar to that proposed for White Plains now operates the 1,700-car parking garage beneath San Francisco's Union Square. The subterranean unit involved establishment of a special corporation by city charter amendment. No state action was necessary because of the city's "home rule" powers granted by the California constitution.

Daily Bible Thought

When we acknowledge our mistakes we have gone far toward correcting them: "And the son said unto him, Father, I have sinned against heaven and in thy sight, and am no more worthy to be called thy son." — Luke 15:21.

The chief difference between a wise man and an ignorant one is, not that the first is acquainted with regions invisible to the second, away from common sight and interest, but that he understands the common things which the second only sees.—Starr King.

Unification of Germany

By JOSEPH and STEWART ALSOP

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30 — A solid offer for the economic unification of Germany has been secretly made by Marshal Sokolowski, commander of the Soviet zone, to the American deputy military governor, Lieutenant General Lucius D. Clay. Sokolowski, Clay and their economic advisers are now earnestly discussing terms at Berlin.

Agreement will be difficult yet even if agreement is not reached, the Soviet overture at Berlin is an event of really major import. It implies a distinct change and, at least temporarily, a distinct improvement in the climate of thought in the Kremlin. If Clay succeeds, without undue sacrifice of principle, in finding a common meeting ground with his Soviet colleague, this may perhaps portend a general brightening of the whole dark world scene.

But it is early days yet for optimism.

The details of the Soviet offer are not known, but even the broad outline is significant. The Soviets are ready to establish central German agencies to control the Germany economy, for the want of which Germany has been steadily deteriorating into a vast, squalid, ruined soup kitchen. In return, the Soviets ask us to agree to payment of German reparations to Russia out of the current production of the western zones. Specifically, they are believed to be asking for 25 per cent of the output of the Ruhr-Rhineland area.

Such reparations would have to be largely financed by German exports. Consequently the Soviets are also willing to approve a steep increase in the formerly planned level of German industry. Previously, they fought for reducing German industry to the approximate condition of weakness advocated by Henry Morgenthau Jr. Now they are understood to be talking of a German industrial potential measured in terms of steel production of from 8,500,000 to 12,000,000 tons annually. This is close to the original, much-abused British figure.

In effect, if they can get the reparations they want, and secure a share in the control of the Ruhr, the Soviets are now ready to stand for an industrially powerful Germany.

The fact that the Clay-Sokolowski discussions have borne no tangible fruit may be deduced from their personal nature. Thus far, the British and French have not been included, which means that the whole business is still in an early stage (although Sokolowski made his first approach to Clay in July).

The discussions have, however, already caused some division of opinion among interested American officials. The existence of differing views is sufficiently disclosed by Clay's decision to carry on the discussions himself, without the aid of his more pessimistic political adviser, Ambassador Robert Murphy. Moreover, the majority of the State department's Russian experts are much less hopeful than Clay that the Soviets will agree to any form of economic unification of Germany which we can accept with satisfaction.

Assuming that this country is willing to purchase Soviet cooperation by paying reparations from current production and rebuilding German industrial strength (in themselves deeply important decisions), there are only two real questions remaining to be answered.

First, Germany can hardly be economically unified without a measure of political unification. Central agencies, empowered to control the whole German economy, would have to control the Soviet zone as well. There would have to be much greater freedom of movement between zones, and absolute freedom of entry and authority in the Soviet zone for non-Soviet and non-Communist officials.

Condition for Russia

If Marshal Sokolowski concedes all this, he will completely undermine the monolithic, totalitarian structure which the Russians have built in eastern Germany. On the other hand, if this much is not honestly conceded, the unification agreement will not be worth the paper is is written on. Here is the usual dilemma. As usual, no sound agreement can be reached with the Soviets, unless they are willing to relax their iron grip on territory already incorporated into their system.

If they do so, it will be the first time since the end of the war. Furthermore, the territory in question, eastern Germany, flanks Czechoslovakia and Poland, so that if the iron curtain were lifted here, the whole Eastern European picture would alter. In short, unless Clay is over-eager to take the shadow for the substance, final agreement will mean a major change of Soviet policy. Some quarters in the State department fear over-eagerness in Clay, who is working in this matter on a personal directive from Secretary of State James F. Byrnes.

As to the second question to be answered, it is simply what reactions may be expected from the French and British. Bitter feelings will no doubt be aroused among the French, whose relations with Clay are already so bad that they recently protested against him to the state department. The British, whose zone includes the Ruhr, may not be too happy either. Yet if the Clay-Sokolowski talks produce a really sound, practical solution of Germany's politico-economic problem, the chances are that the British and French will yield to the combined persuasions of this country and the Soviet Union. Meanwhile, pending an outcome, it must be noted that the new development is a handsome justification of the new Byrnes-Clay German policy. This was built from the first, as reported in this space, on the hope that the Soviets would be moved from their intransigence by the stick of the Ruhr and the carrot of reparations. We now know that the hope was at least reasonable.

SOVIET Alleges America Enslaves Nations by Helps—headline.

I know he is a low, vile bum;
He is exploiting me;
I have the proof, with more to come—
He aids me cheerfully!

He'd make of me a helpless slave,
A wooden stooge at best;
Full evidence to me he gave—
He grants me each request!

He hates me with a loathing hate—
He'll get me in the end;
For further proof you need not wait;
He treats me like a FRIEND!

He's up to some cheap, dirty deeds;
Their horror I can guess;
When I ask for a billion seeds
He kindly answers "YES!"

A foul ball of the lowest type,
He has cheap tricks in store;
For every touch he's always ripe
And begs me take SOME MORE!

I don't know what he's up to, but
It's loathsome, it's a cinch;
His loans to me he will NOT cut
For fear I'll feel the pinch.

Vandalism

By TRUMAN TWILL

Every year at Halloween there is the usual uproar about vandals who seize the opportunity to destroy property, but what this country needs is a year-'round campaign.

The Halloween problem then would take care of itself. The urge to tear down what someone else has built up isn't seasonal. It just breaks out in epidemic form on the occasion conveniently provided by the Halloween tradition.

In springtime, vandalism finds expression in destruction of shrubs, trees and flower beds. Beady-eyes despoilers wrench off branches of blossoms, pull up spring flowers by the root and trample plants representing someone's hope for a little more beauty in a drab world.

As every caretaker of a public building, a public park, or a private estate accessible to the public can testify with tears in his eyes, the struggle for beauty is lopsided. The most that can be accomplished, short of a 24-hour-a-day patrol with a shotgun, is less than half of what could be accomplished if vandalism were eradicated.

Every bus, bus station, railroad station and virtually every public conveyance bears mute witness to the endless instinct of vandals to deface, cut, scratch, gouge, tear and pick to pieces exposed property. Every public washroom in the nation is Exhibit A in the case of the builder-uppers vs the tearer-downers.

Public buildings and private buildings put to public use are victims of endless erosion carried on relentlessly 365 days a year, plus one for leap year, by vandals who break off everything breakable, wrench loose everything that challenges their strength and carry off whatever has not been chained down.

An automobile with a high finish is more than a vandal can endure, unless he can release his pent-up itch to climb over the hood with his shoes, or gouge a smutty inscription on its surface with a stone. A set of tires is an invitation to get busy with an ice pick or a knife. A new bicycle suggests a brisk kick in the spokes.

The vandal's code is to bust it if it's bustable, bend it if it's bendable, scratch it if it's scratchable, kill it if it's alive, but it up, tear it down, push it over—but by all means do something that will make the owner or the caretaker mutter grimly, "If I could only lay my hands on the bird who did that!"

The word "vandal" is civilization's monument to the undying infamy of a Germanic tribe that set the record for destroying property early in the Christian era. Anyone who imagines vandalism is something prankish that happens at Halloween needs to consider what other Germanic tribes have done in the 20th century and what our own vandals are up to every day of their misspent lives.

Italian Papers Like Fiction, Reporter Says

By JOHN P. McKNIGHT
Associated Press Writer.

ROME, Oct. 30—This old boy Boccaccio now. The scion marvels, blushing at mention of name, sold him up as the great master of prose, the daddy of the surprise ending, the romp from Aeschylus, Shakespeare and the rest shamelessly crooked their stuff.

As they see it, he spun all those zany, wacky, naughty tales of the Decameron out of his own inventive head.

Maybe so, but foreign correspondents in Rome think they know better. All that Boccaccio did, they think, was re-write the Italian newspapers. In point of strict chronological accuracy. Of course, Boccaccio couldn't have cribbed from the press because there wasn't any in his day, but he could have listened to the town crier or tramped a beat with the watch.

If this explanation seems implausible or wanting in respect to the old maestro, look at these dreamers from one day's editions of Rome newspapers.

Fate Takes Hand.

The scene—Turin. Maria and Rosa Arrosa, elderly sisters were drastically poor. Life very decided, held nothing further. As they had lived, together, so they decided to die.

Hand in hand they jumped from their fourth floor flat. Maria plummeted to the deadly ... was instant. But fate stepped in ... separate the sisters at last. A steel wire at the third floor level caught and held Rosa. She escaped with only bruises.

City Tragedy.

The scene — Rome. Signora Concetta Penna rose to find her house strangely quiet. In some indefinable way it seemed to make her ... The maid ... As she opened the door a strong smell of gas from a small gas ... water ... caught her up from ... On their bed ... and ... by the three ... Carmela—Barbara de Belardo 22, Francesca Palermo 26, Angelina ... 37. All had come to Rome recently from Italy. Sicily ... very badly, and of course, ... for heat and hot water.

Incident d'Amour.

The scene—Genoa. She was a ... German-born, ... and handsome. A ... and ... They ... a ... room. She ... to find him ... Gone too, she told police, was her purse with jewels and ... 8,000,000 ... $26.66. Always before, she ... had worn ... strapped to ... body.

Millionaire for a Day.

The scene — Milan. A few ... ago word ... Pilade ... that he had ... lire ($1,000,000). A benevolent man who loved his neighbors, Pilade spun large plans for public benefactions. The press heard of his laudable intentions and bruited them about. He got 3,000 letters suggesting worthy charities. Then there arrived one more letter. It said, in effect. It was not he, after all, who had inherited the money but another fellow entirely a fellow also named Pilade Francescani.

Double Failure.

The scene — Rome. Bright October is the month of remorse or triumph or heartbreak for Rome's university students. To earnest students examinations are grave matters.

Maria Simola, 19, failed. She thought of her mother, waiting so eagerly for news. She decided (she explained later) that she could not face her. A brother's prescription for 20 sleeping tablets was in her pocket. She had it filled, went to a park, gulped them all. Passersby found her minutes later and rushed her to a hospital. A stomach pump saved her.

Sister Bonaventura, would-be physician, was up for examination in obstetrics. Ofelia, her sister and staunch supporter, could not wait to find out how things were going. A skylight opened on the examination room. She inched out on it to peek. Ofelia and the shattered glass fell square on teacher's desk.

BOY HELD FOR SLAYING. Fifteen-year-old Henry J. Haubold Jr. Bellmore, L. I., appears in the police station in Mineola, N. Y., after being charged with first degree murder in the fatal stabbing of George Wanzor, Jr., 11-years-old. District Attorney James ... Cahalan said that Haubold had confessed stabbing Wanzor several times with a knife in a wooded area in nearby Wantagh, L. I.

Scorched Ashley Apple Trees Blossom Forth

By The Associated Press

ASHLEY—At the farm home of Mr. and Mrs. Dallas Coleman, west of Ashley some weeds were being burned to destroy poison ivy roots when the fire got beyond control, scorching several apple trees. This was five weeks ago, and two weeks after, these scorched trees bloomed forming a mass of blossoms in places over the trees. The blooms were of the usual size, but did not have the usual pink tinge. A few may still be seen.

84 GIVEN FIFTH DEGREE BY GRANGE

Pomona Meeting is Held at Clarndon School.

The fifth degree was conferred on a class of 84 candidates when Marion County Pomona Grange met Saturday night, Oct. 26, at Clarndon school with United Grange as host. A degree team from Radnor Grange in Delaware county was in charge of the degree work. The large class was the result of a contest between granges in the county divided with those in the west versus those in the east. The granges from the east section of the county won with 57 candidates.

Entries from winners in subordinate grange prune bread and stuffed toy contests were judged by Miss Gladys Uncapher, Home Economics teacher at Pleasant Township school, and Miss Ruth Kleinmaier, Home Service Director of the Ohio Public Service Co.

Winners in the prune bread contest were Mrs. Ada Baldinger of Martel Grange, first, and Mrs. Ivan Owen of Bowling Green Grange, second. Mrs. Ralph Williams of Bethlehem Grange received first award in the stuffed toy contest. These winners will compete in the state wide contest to be held in December in Columbus.

An announcement was made of the annual Grange banquet to be held Wednesday night, Nov. 20 at 7:30 p. m. at the First Evangelical and Reformed church on South Prospect street in Marion. Tickets for the banquet can be obtained from the masters of the subordinate granges in the county.

Following the meeting, cider and doughnuts were served by the county home economics committee. The next meeting on Jan. 4, 1947, will be an all day meeting beginning at 11 a. m. at the Bowling Green Grange hall. A basket dinner will be served at noon.

The ceremony was read at 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon by the pastor, Rev. M E Hollensen.

Mrs. Bobbie Harrington of Toledo was matron of honor and bridesmaids were Mrs Gerald Phillips of Lexington and Mrs Ray Long. Miss Jeanne Wendt of Toledo was the junior bridesmaid, Judy Campbell the flower girl and Larry Fehlhaber of Gibsonburg ring bearer. Henry Bottomly of Galion served as best man for Mr Sandquist, who is the son of Mrs Alice Sandquist of Watertown, Minn., and serving as ushers were Lowell Garverick of Galion, Bob Ruth of Edison and Harold Manring of Martel. Lighting the candles were Bonnie Kern and Janie Larkin.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white brocaded satin dress made with a fitted bodice ending in a peplum. Her finger-tip veil was held with a crown of pearls and crystal stones and her orchid centered bouquet held white chrysanthemums. She wore the bridegroom's gift a rhinestone necklace. The matron of honor wore a dress in an aqua shade and carried orchid colored flowers. Mrs Phillips was costumed in a green dress and Mrs Long in pink. The bridesmaids carried bouquets of yellow flowers. The junior bridesmaid wore a rose colored dress and carried pink chrysanthemums, and the flower girl, dressed in white, carried a basket of harmonizing flowers. The ringbearer carried the rings on a white satin pillow.

Decorations in the church were chrysanthemums and oak leaves.

Following the ceremony there was a reception in the church parlors, where the bride's table was lighted with candles and decorated with roses and carnations. The bride's mother was costumed in an aqua dress with black accessories and wore a gardenia and pink rose corsage. The bridegroom's mother wore a blue costume with black accessories. Her flowers were gardenias and white carnations.

The couple spent their honeymoon in Cleveland. They will make their home at 236 Grove avenue in Galion.

The bride's gifts to her attendants were earrings and compacts and the bridegroom presented his best man with a watch-chain and the ushers with tie-clasps.

Guests from out of the city included Mrs Sandquist, mother of the bridegroom, and Norman Sandquist of Watertown, Minn., Mr and Mrs Curtis Roop and daughter of Detroit, Mrs. W. J. Wendt and daughter, Miss Helen Fehlhaber, Mr and Mrs. George Fehlhaber and Mrs. Wilford Fehlhaber of Toledo, Mr. and Mrs Charles Fehlhaber and Mrs Raymond Fehlhaber and son of Gibsonburg.

Announcement is being made of the marriage of Mrs Georgia Shadaker of Huntington, W. Va., formerly of Marion, to Howard D Price of Marion. The double ring ceremony was read Sunday, Oct 27, in the Fifth Avenue Baptist church in Huntington by Rev. J Maurice Trimmer. Attending the couple were Miss Arleen Shadaker and Gene Pike.

Mrs Shadaker was attired in a light blue suit with which she combined black accessories. Her corsage was of dark red roses. Miss Shadaker wore a dark brown suit with matching accesories and a corsage of yellow roses.

At the present time, Mr. Price is employed with the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad in Huntington, W Va. The couple will make their home at 601 Ninth avenue in that city for the present.

News Analyst Opens Season of Club Talks

NEED of clearer understanding between the United States and Russia and the promulgation of our foreign policies by statesmen rather than spokesmen from the military was voiced by Mrs Dorothy Fuldheim, Cleveland news analyst and lecturer, in a talk last night at Central Junior High school. The occasion was the opening of the 1946-47 season of the Marion County Federation of Women's Clubs, which includes a series of lectures, talks and book reviews.

An accomplished speaker with a background of firsthand knowledge of her subject, Mrs. Fuldheim held her audience spellbound for more than an hour in a revealing talk on the leaders of Russia, their interpretation of past and present events in the relationship of the two nations. Her subject was "From Moscow to Washington."

Mrs. Fuldheim discounted opinions held by some that Russia is trying to convert the United States to Communism and was equally as sure that labor here does not want communism. Pointing out that this is not one world but a democratic and a communistic one, she asked: "Isn't it strange, that two systems that fought together can not live together in peace?"

Pegler, Winchell and men like them wield more power today than the president of the United States, she stated, and proposed that Pearson and Winchell would be the proonets of the Twentieth century. A question period was held following the talk.

Mrs. T. H. Sutherland, president of the foundation, presided and the speaker was presented by Mrs. Fillmore Young, program chairman of the federation.

"LIFE WITH FATHER" NEARING N. Y. RECORD

Play Coming to Marion, Sets High Mark on Broadway.

"Life With Father," which will be presented on the stage of the Palace theater Wednesday night, Nov. 6, is well on the way toward passing the record of "Tobacco Road" for consecutive performances on Broadway.

Commenting on the play's long New York run, the New York Times of Oct. 11, made this comment: "Seemingly impervious to time, 'Life With Father' ambles along nonchalantly with one object in view—to tie the record set by 'Tobacco Road.' Last night Father' chalked up its 290 performance in New York City. Only 282 to go, according to Harry Forward, statistician, before the 'Tobacco Road' mark is equaled in June."

In the meantime, in response to widespread demand, the play is being presented throughout the country by several carefully selected casts. The company which will give the performance in Marion is made up of a New York cast headed by Brandon Peters and Alice Thompson.

The seat sale is now under way at the Palace theater and reports from the Palace box office indicate that the great American comedy classic will draw a capacity audience from Marion and neighboring communities.

Marion County Vote of Near Record Size Forecast With Campaign in Closing Week

By AUSTIN E. SHOWMAN

While Marion county political guns boom away with the final rounds of their campaign ammunition, election officials and party leaders alike predict heavy balloting in Tuesday's election.

They estimate the combined city and county vote may run over 20,000 and believe it may even exceed the 21,037 votes cast in the presidential year 1944. Some predict it will run even higher. Their reasons are fourfold. They point to the large registration in the city, 17,258, the biggest list of eligible voters Marion has had since 1940. They call attention to returning servicemen, many of whom will be voting for the first time in a general election. They review the special issues, including one in the city and seven in the county, as measures which will draw scores of additional voters to the polls, and they point to the party column ballot carrying four contests in the county and two in the district.

In the city, balloting is expected to be particularly heavy in Precinct D, Second Ward, with 714 registrations listed. Precinct E, First Ward, with 673 and Precinct B, Second Ward, with 666.

The city vote is expected to be boosted by the two-mill tax levy for increasing teachers' salaries, with school children throughout the city urging their parents to go to the polls. The seven special issues in the county, including a referendum, two bond issues and four tax levies, are expected to push county voting far above the 6,903 votes cast there in 1944.

Special Issues Reviewed

The two-mill tax levy in the city for increasing teachers' salaries would run four years and is estimated to yield $82,000 a year. About 80 per cent of the funds raised would be used for salary increases and the other 20 per cent for additional operating expenses.

Prospect voters will ballot on a referendum of two village ordinances one calling for $135,000 for constructing a sanitary sewage system and sewage treatment works there and the other for $145,000 for constructing a waterworks plant. Voters will be asked to either approve or reject the ordinances. Both measures were adopted Aug. 26 by the village council. The projects would be financed through the issuance and sale of mortgage revenue bonds.

Additional tax levies will be sought by three school districts in the county and renewal of a tax levy will be sought in a fourth. The LaRue local school district is asking for approval of 3.85 mills to provide funds for operating expenses. The levy would run three years. The Waldo local school district is asking for a three-mill levy for five years to provide funds for current operating expenses with collection of the levy to start on the first half of the 1946 taxes and the Pleasant township school district proposes a 1½ mill levy for five years to provide funds for current expenses.

Voters in the Morral local school district will ballot on renewal of a three-mill levy for five years to provide funds for operation of the school.

Bond Issue Proposals

Bond issues are being proposed by the Montgomery local school and the Marion township local school. The Montgomery school bond issue would raise $50,000 for constructing an auditorium-gymnasium as an addition to the present building and making other permanent improvements. The issue would be financed by a 2.07 mill tax levy outside the 10-mill limitation to run a maximum period of 20 years.

The new auditorium-gymnasium, which the school board reports is badly needed, would be a 40 by 70 foot structure with a seating capacity of 300 and would include a standard sized basketball floor.

The Marion township school bond issue calls for $63,791 for acquisition of land contiguous to the present Campbell school site, construction of a permanent school building on the enlarged site, razing the present building and using all possible material from it in the new building, landscaping the enlarged school grounds and inclosing the entire new and enlarged site with a new and permanent wire fence. The bond issue would be financed by a 3.31 mill levy outside the 10-mill limitation for a maximum period of ten years.

County, District Contests

Six contests feature the district and county races for public office. In the race for representative to congress from the eighth district, Frederick C. Smith of Marion, Republican, seeks reelection over his Democratic opponent, John T. Siemon, farmer and ex-serviceman of near Kenton. Both candidates ran unopposed in the primary election, and in Marion county Smith pulled 4,962 votes compared to Siemon's 2,725.

In the state senatorial contest David Edward Nolan, Democrat, of Bellefontaine, ex-serviceman, farmer and businessman, is running against D. A. Liggitt, Republican, of Belle Center, who seeks reelection. Nolan was unopposed in the primary while Liggitt won the nomination over Harold Cameron. In Marion county Liggitt received 2,858 votes and Nolan 2,636.

The post of representative to the general assembly is sought by Olis R. McCloskey of Marion, Democrat, a machine operator at the Universal Cooler Corp., and Kenneth A. Robinson, Republican, Marion attorney, ex-serviceman, and former city solicitor. Robinson won the nomination by defeating his Republican opponent, Earl E. Thomas, by a vote of 3,989 to 1,912, while McCloskey ran unopposed on the Democratic ticket to poll 2,635 votes.

Paul H. Naher of Prospect route 2, former Marion county recorder, is the Democratic choice for county commissioner. He is opposed by Republican Luther J. Mitchell, farmer, of Marion route 6. Mitchell defeated John D. Jones to win the nomination in primary while Naher ran unopposed. In the primary Mitchell received 3,098 votes and Naher 2,986.

The county auditor's job is sought by Harry V. Mounts of Marion, Republican and present auditor, and George Conroy, Democrat, of Marion, ex-serviceman and former auto driver's examiner for the state highway patrol. Conroy was endorsed by his party after George F. Clapsaddle withdrew from the race following his nomination in the primary. Next to John W. Bricker, Republican candidate for U. S. senator, Mounts received the highest number of county votes in the primary, 5,208.

Write-in Contest

The race for clerk of courts has recently developed into a three-way contest, with two Republicans and one Democrat seeking the office in a write-in campaign. The Democrat is John W. Sekinger of Marion, decorator and former first-aid and swimming instructor. Republicans in the race are Calvin Oborn, present clerk appointed by county commissioners following the resignation last summer of Elmer E. Smith, and William L. Ogan of Marion, photographer.

Paul D. Smith, Republican, Marion county common pleas judge, is running unopposed for reelection on the judicial ticket.

A Frank Statement About New Car Delivery:

1. We want to sell all of the new cars we can! That's one of our major sources of income . . . and naturally we are sincerely interested in making as many deliveries as possible.

2. We cannot sell cars unless we have them to sell. Unless the factory makes the cars . . . we just haven't got them to sell, and, you can't build cars without materials! It is true that some cars are being delivered without bumpers, window regulators and rear seats. But even so, many thousands more are not even being manufactured because of lack of parts and materials!

3. The demand for new cars far exceeds any hope of production! We must face the very startling fact that only one out of every ten customers will get delivery on new cars this year, according to reliable sources.

4. We want to feel optimistic but frankly there isn't much reason for it. Shortages of material and frequent work stoppages tend to dampen our enthusiasm. We'd like to tell you when production will reach the sales saturation point. Again, we want to be frank and honest . . . it is just impossible to cite any ray of hope this year. Cars are not being manufactured in quantities great enough to meet the demand. Therefore, you won't be getting a new car for perhaps a very long, long time.

We Offer This Friendly Warning:

Take care of your present car! Unless you give your present car the very best of care you may be car-less.

It is a recognized fact that your car will operate better and last longer if you give it proper care. We urge you to take it to any of the dealers listed below for expert, guaranteed workmanship.

Don't wait until trouble overtakes you! A qualified mechanic is your best friend today . . . and by visiting one of the following garages you will get not only the very best service but genuine parts necessary for your particular motor. In the long run it will cost you less and take you farther if you check up on your motor frequently!

Ohio "Accident" Victim Slain, Autopsy Shows

By The Associated Press

STEUBENVILLE, O., Oct. 30—Jefferson county authorities today sought a motive in the death of Mrs. Fred Stine of nearby East Springfield, 50-year-old mother of nine, after Coroner W. H. Rogers said she as slain and not the victim of a traffic accident, as originally reported.

Her body was found along a highway a half-mile from her home last Saturday. Dissatisfied with reports that she was killed by an automobile whose driver failed to stop, Dr. Rogers performed an autopsy and decided she died from a blow on the back of the head.

Authorities said she may have been struck near her home and then taken to the place her body was found. She was believed to be returning home from a grocery when she met death.

The victim's husband is a coal miner.

Auto Manufacturers Planning Production Program for 1947

By DAVID J. WILKIE
Associated Press Automotive Editor

DETROIT, Oct. 30—Automobile manufacturers have begun planning their production programs for the first quarter of 1947 and from what can be learned about the scheduling it appears no marked upturn in volume over the average of the last few months is anticipated.

Through most of the current year the car makers over-estimated their production probabilities, several times they had to cut back their schedules. They laid out heavy schedules for the car body manufacturers; scarcity of steel hampered production in the body plants.

At the same time some of the components were in liberal supply. Generally the car makers could not afford to turn these back and the result was a highly unbalanced inventory of raw materials, parts and equipment in just about every assembly plant.

Uncertainties Lie Ahead

As many uncertainties lie ahead of the car makers today as they have faced at any time since postwar operations began 15 months ago. They have no assurance that a normal "flood" of supplies can be re-established in the next five or six months; they do not know what their raw materials will cost or what their hourly wage rates will be. Without even an approximate idea of what overall production costs will be they are unable to even guess whether they can avoid another increase in retail prices.

Another uncertainty. And a vital one in all the industry's planning is the exact extent to which continuing high retail prices will affect consumer demand. Some of the sales chiefs scoff at the suggestion that increased prices already have eliminated several million would-be buyers from the backlog that accumulated during the war.

Demand Seen Slackening

Others assert bluntly that the present demand for cars-at-any-price will run out by next summer and that the retailing division will have to exert a lot of real sales effort to keep cars moving.

Those who hold to this latter belief point out that the low-priced car as the motoring public knew it before the war has ceased to exist. In its place, they add, is a medium-priced vehicle beyond the reach of many thousands of would-be car owners. It will require a greatly sharpened selling technique, according to some of the sales executives, to dissuade other thousands from postponing their new car purchases indefinitely.

Appears Logical

This reasoning may appear logical on its face but it is an extreme viewpoint and it comes from sales executives who, eager to increase long range demand for their own cars, may be looking further ahead than next summer.

Pension Society Hears Talk by Evangelist

Rev. R. D. Brown, evangelist, of Evington, O., was a guest speaker at a meeting of the Old Age Pension Society of Marion County Friday afternoon in the Eagles' hall. Reese Jenkins, vice president, presided and the meeting opened with prayer by Rev. A. M. Hood and also by the audience and patriotic singing. Chris Ruth and W. E. Sargent sang "Farther Along," accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Eva Parish, and songs by the group included "Bringing in the Sheaves," "Sweet Bye and Bye" and "Hold the Fort." Rev. Hood sang "There Is a Glorious Sunset for You," and "I Know Who Pilots Me," playing an accompaniment on the accordion. A flower fund has been established by the group and a committee to take charge named. A report on members who are ill was given by William Porter and a talk on pensions and pensioners given by Paul Naher.

Basing his talk on the Thirty-Second Psalm Rev. Brown told his audience to take their trials and tribulations to the Lord in prayer and rejoice, he added, "for underneath you are the everlasting arms."

Mrs. Elizabeth Howser gave the closing prayer.

ERIE EMPLOYES AT PASSENGER SCHOOLS

Conductors, Trainmen Brush Up Service.

Passenger conductors and trainmen of the Erie Railroad are currently attending a series of conferences to plan and adopt ways and means of better serving travelers on Erie's passenger trains.

These conferences, held at Huntington, Marion, Cleveland, Meadville, Youngstown, Port Jervis, Hornell, Buffalo and Jersey City, are part of the system-wide continuous training program for employes.

Conducted by representatives of the passenger traffic, accounting and operating departments, and well attended, the conferences afford open forum discussion of efficient methods for handling of tickets and the proper application of regulations contained in the conductors' manual. Exhibits and charts of ticket and accounting forms are used.

The important subject of post-war travel is also receiving full consideration at the conferences. Erie passenger trainmen take an active interest in discussing the advantages of a friendly and courteous attitude toward the public.

The conferences further discuss the improved dieselized passenger service which the Erie will inaugurate early next year. All through trains will be hauled by 4,500 h.p. diesel locomotives, and will include new lightweight all-room sleeping cars, modernized coaches and dining cars.

Paralysis Victim Travels As Wheel Chair Hitchhiker

By The Associated Press

DALLAS, Oct. 30—Wesley Englquist, 26, Fremont, Neb., who wouldn't let paralysis conquer his wanderlust, plans now to roll on to Florida for the winter—in his wheel chair.

He is here to visit a friend, Ford H. Castro.

Englquist's wandering over highways in his wheelchair began three and a half years ago when he decided to visit a sister in Fremont. Since then he has traveled thousands of miles.

He said friendly truck drivers usually pick him up, but on one trip he had to wheel himself 200 miles.

On the current trip he was stalled, having to travel under his own power only 190 miles. He left Fremont Aug. 15. He went first to California. It took him 31 days to reach the coast.

From California he went to Fort Worth to see a brother. Then he came to Dallas to visit Castro. While here, he is having his chair repaired. Later he plans his trip to Florida, but the date is not set. He has made 16 trips.

His major trouble, he said, is finding a place to sleep at night. Often he sleeps in his wheelchair. Also, he carries two spare tires—the wartime synthetics, he says, do not hold up well. He admits, however, that wheelchair tires probably weren't built for highway travel.

National Chiefs Seen Ready For More UN Action

By J. M. ROBERTS JR.
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

The war of words has attained a volume which is difficult to digest all at once, but suggesting that there can't be much more to say before the nations get down to cases.

Stalin, Molotov and Churchill—each doing some blasting and each doing some purring—have joined with lesser voices of the United Nations to lay the issues on the table.

It's a strange new business, this approach to settlement through the internal press and radio. Open diplomacy which would surprise even a Wilson. Appeals to peoples, rather than to governments, but with one people—the Russian—barred from the debate or so enthralled by their own government as to minimize whatever little part of outside opinion might reach them.

Churchill Lights Fire

Churchill, although in retreat regarding his suggestion that Russia had 200 divisions in middle Europe, set the fire which smoked out statements from Russia that she doesn't have as many troops in occupied countries as believed, that she is cutting those down, and that she is willing to talk about a general arms cut. This latter revelation, by Mr. Molotov, is the one entirely new approach injected in to the debate in some time.

Stalin said he had 60 incomplete Soviet divisions in eastern Europe and that these were to be reduced to 40 soon.

Division strength varies greatly, even within one country's army. The prewar Russian infantry division was about 15,000 men. Some later went to 25,000. There is no way of our knowing, but on the basis of Stalin's statement the number of Red troops in middle Europe should seem to run from 90,000 to 1,200,000, still 100,000 to 400,000 more than the combined British and American forces. The British have probably 150,000 additional in Greece and the Middle East. (Incidentally, the British give out some figures on their troop dispositions, but the United States is secretive. Figures from various sources indicate they each have about 600,000 troops on foreign ground.)

Leading Cause of Dissension

This business of military support for diplomacy is, along with the United Nations veto and the atom bomb, a leading cause for dissension between the powers. With Stalin apparently moving toward agreement with America on making atomic control international, and the American plan to save the veto through restricting and defining its use, this military situation suggests one barely possible way around the other big snag in the atomic proposals. Molotov continues to harp on the U. S. refusal to destroy her bombs immediately.

There has seemed to be no room for compromise on this point, the U. S. insisting that she cannot lay herself open until the whole problem of bomb manufacture is under an international control that is not merely projected, but actually working.

It would take a lot to change that. The only conceivable inducement would seem to be a reduction in the arms of other nations to a point where, even with the development of an atomic bomb of their own, they would be without sufficient corollary weapons for aggression.

The possibility of such a development seems so remote as to be almost invisible. The whole trend of modern thinking is toward strength for peace, toward collective force against aggression, and toward self-defense first of all. But one cannot help remembering that Molotov, in mentioning a general reduction of arms, is harking back toward an idea proposed by Russia at Geneva before World War II—total disarmament.

LETTERS FROM OUR READERS

"THE GUIDE-POSTS"

Editor of The Star: We are told that God created man in His own image which means that He endowed him with a spiritual nature. This was done so he could keep in touch with His Creator and have fellowship with Him always. But man lost this fellowship by sinning, and he does not realize how great was this priceless opportunity he lost, hence he is, in many cases, not eager to regain it.

God also made man a free moral agent with power to choose as he wished, but He made him responsible for the choice he would make. For our protection and welfare He saw fit to set about us certain bounds which mark the limits of right conduct. We can go beyond these but if we do we go contrary to our own best interest. These bounds are marked by signs, or guide-posts, to warn us of the dangers that lie outside the realm of right. The highest good is attainable, the greatest efficiency is reached and the finest pleasures are possibly only when one conforms to the lifeline limits of right. Don't try to kid yourself. It is only an ignoramus, a "smarty" or a fool who will do a thing just because it's forbidden.

Many people have perverted ideas of right and wrong. They need to be, "Transformed by the renewing of their minds," for, "The God of this world hath blinded the minds of them which believe not." God promises to forgive us our sins if we confess them, then we can see more clearly what is best for us to choose. We can't break the laws of right, they break us.

Any one who thinks he can see that, "Wine is a mocker, strong drink is raging, whosoever is deceived thereby is not wise." Medical authorities say alcohol increases heart action, lessens the development of corpuscles, causes fatty degeneration of the heart and arteries, produces alcoholic contracted kidneys, produces hobnail liver, makes the walls of the stomach leathery, hinders digestion, increases alcoholic thirst and leads to apoplexy. Children of alcoholics may be degenerates, have feeble minds, attacks of mania, homicidal tendencies, epilepsy, insanity and paralysis, etc., etc. And yet we have people who do not seem to know this. They who drink alcohol at all may be expected to show a loss of manners, or self respect or decency. Men should show themselves to be manly, women should show us they are ladies.

Direful things can also be said about the effects of tobacco on the human system, for it, too, is a poison. The smoking of cigarets, "coffin-nails" is the worst form of its use and is especially ruinous to females. Other poisonous and harmful things are in use, too, and that by people who were created in God's image. Look for the guide-posts and heed the warnings along life's way.

CABBIES TO PLAY COLUMBUS HILLTOP A. C.'S HERE FRIDAY

Local Semi-Pros Book Tough Stadium Tilt With Beef Trust

Still in the initial stages of development as a semi-professional football team, the Safety Cab A. C.'s are engaging the best talent available in order to gain a reputation as a top flight club. So far the Cabbies have given a much better than expected showing and stirred up no little amount of interest. Continuing their policy of taking on the tough ones, the Marion club has scheduled a star studded grid squad from Columbus, the Hilltop A. C.'s, for Friday night at Harding stadium.

The Hilltoppers boast a club which has a weight average of better than 200 pounds on the line and around 185 in the backfield. The Columbus semi-pro team has turned in some impressive records in the capital city and is formed around several college and service team players.

Played for Findlay

Russ Albin, the Hilltop quarterback, formerly played for Findlay college and in the service played with the mighty Iowa Seahawks in 1943. His brother, Dick Albin, who will be the snapper for them, has played with Michigan State and Great Lakes. Another of the Columbus squad is Ernie Dahlen whose name formerly appeared in the Purdue lineup. It is also reported that the team has a number of others who played with college teams.

After losing two in a row, the Marion club is spending this week attempting to iron out some of the flaws which have cropped up. In last week's contest the Cabbies were able to get within scoring distance of the Dayton Rockets' goal line but they lacked the necessary punch to drive into the end zone and although Dayton's offense was functioning no better than Marion's, they were able to gain a score and the victory. Against Fort Wayne the team was definitely not up to par. However, that is now a closed incident.

Offensive Stressed

This week's practice has been devoted primarily to offensive tactics and the team is stressing down-field blocking, something in which they have been notoriously weak in the past. If coordination can be achieved between the ball carriers and the blockers, the Cabble game will be improved not only from the angle of results but also in making the contest more interesting to the spectators.

Skull sessions designating individual responsibilities on each play and complications involved in carrying out their provided tasks, are being held this week.

In each of their home games so far, the club has turned in a good performance, however, much improvement is still hoped for in their playing.

The club has turned away some of the best semi-pro teams in the state with defeats or meager margins of victory but still works basically as a defensive outfit. Improvement in their offense is needed and it is believed that a point should produce noticeable week of intensive drill on that results Friday night.

Neither of the two squads will be installed as the favorite in the contest because although Columbus has a good number of former college players, defensively the Marion squad can perform with the best of them.

All the Marion linemen from left end Howard Richardson to right end Max Roseberry are vicious tacklers, and the backs, too, are right in there to break up opponents' thrusts.

This promises to be another tightly fought contest and the Cabbies are likely to unveil new power against the Hilltop gridders.

BUFFALO BISONS MAY LEAD HOCKEY LOOP

By The Associated Press

The Buffalo Bisons, American hockey league champions, have place in the circuit's Western division tonight while the Pittsburgh Hornets and the Cleveland Barons have a chance to deadlock the Indianapolis Capitals for the lead.

Currently trailing the Caps who are idle, by one point, the Bisons play host to the Barons, last season's playoff finalist while the Hornets entertain the tail-end Philadelphia Rockets of the Eastern division.

The Barons and the Hornets are deadlocked for third at seven points apiece, two points behind the Caps and victories for both clubs would elevate them into a deadlock with Indianapolis for first place. If the Bisons beat Cleveland they will lead the sector by one point.

In the only other game of the evening, the pace-setting Hershey Bears of the Eastern division clash with the Springfield Indians at Springfield. The Bears lead the New Haven Ramblers by three points.

Pittsburgh battled the St. Louis Flyers to a 6-6 tie at St. Louis in the circuit's only game last night.

The Hornets piled up a 6-3 lead but the Flyers stormed back in the last four minutes of the game and scored three times within 80 seconds.

Ex-Irish Gridder Stars for Xavier

Jim Daum, captain of the St Mary gridders in 1941, is one of Phil Bucklew's top candidates for All-Ohio honors from Xavier.

Daum has been an outstanding defensive end for the Musketeers and distinguished himself against John Carroll by stopping cold every advance made in his direction. It is remarkable that he was able to do this considering that he had been down with influenza for the week preceding and went into the fray after losing 10 pounds.

Xavier gained a 7 to 6 victory over John Carroll that day, their first victory of the season. The 6 foot 2 inch end was down from a normal 205 to 195 in that engagement. He also is capable in offensive play as was proved in the 26 to 0 thumping which Xavier handed Arkansas State last weekend. He snagged a pass, scoring Xavier's third touchdown of the contest.

In what was described as a spectacular play starting on the Arkansas 20, halfback Tom "Scooter" Dugan lateraled to end Jim DeFranco who tossed one to Daum for the first score in the last quarter.

Daum after graduating from St Mary in 1942, attended college at Omaha, Nebraska, where he played freshman ball. After that he joined the Marines and while in V-12 played for Bowling Green. He was discharged after three years service with the rate of corporal. He is a sophomore at Xavier. His home address 157 Homer street.

Approximately 35 members and five guests turned out for the masquerade party given by the Triangle Motorcycle club for the Triangle Hecklers. The party was held in the club house Friday night, square dancing featuring the evening's festivities.

A closed club reliability night run has been planned for Saturday at 9. Members are urged to be at the club house not later than 8:30 to draw their numbers and a hot chile supper will be served at the club house following the running.

The next monthly meeting of the Triangle Hecklers will be held Nov. 8 at the home of Mrs. Helen Short on Evans Road.

Halloween Masquerade To Be Held at Richwood

A Halloween masquerade street dance will be held in Richwood Thursday night from 9 to 12 p. m. under the sponsorship of the Richwood Lions club. GEORGE WASHINGTON, OAKLAND WIN TILTS

Chalk Up Touch Victories Over Irish and Mark.

Two games in the Y.M.C.A. touch football league were played yesterday afternoon.

On the Marion Power Shovel field, Oakland downed St. Mary 13 to 0 scoring in the first and last period. Thomas scored first for the Oakland gridders and the second touchdown was set up by a blocked punt. R. Davis scored soon afterwards. Davis made the conversion.

At Garfield park George Washington downed Mark Street 9 to 0. In the first quarter Ulsh caught a Mark Street back behind his own goal line to score a safety and in the last period Winter tallied on a 15 yard run. Winter also scored the extra point.

This Saturday the touch football league will be wound up and the champions of the East and the West leagues will meet in a post season contest. Pearl and Olney tied for first place in the East league with four wins apiece will meet in the title deciding game at Central. The other scheduled contests in the east will feature George Washington against Greenwood at McKinley field and Forest Lawn against Mark at Garfield Park.

In the West league St. Mary, which was in first place with two wins and a tie, now trails behind Silver and Oakland. Glenwood meets Silver at the Marion Metal field, North Main meets Oakland on the Marion Power Shovel field, and Oak engages St. Mary at Lincoln park.

Upper Sandusky Grid Team To Visit Shelby

Special to The Star

UPPER SANDUSKY, Oct. 30.—The Rams, Upper Sandusky High school gridders, will travel to Shelby Friday night for their final Northern Ohio league game of the season. Both teams have won five league contests to date. Upper lost one league contest to Norwalk while Shelby has lost only in non-league play, to New Philadelphia and Ashland. A win for the Rams this week will mean at least a tie for first in the league standing. Victory for the Whippets will leave them standing alone at the head of the list.

Next week, Nov. 8, Upper Sandusky and Carey will meet here for the annual season's end tilt for the Wyandot County cup. The blue clad warriors of Carey have won six games and been tied once by Fremont St. Joseph.

SNATCHES OF SPORTS

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Oct. 30—If the Big Nine-Rose Bowl hookup goes through according to Western conference plans, what effect will it have on schools like Notre Dame, Pitt and Michigan State?.... They'd like to make it a Big Ten again and have adhered strictly to conference rules on post-season play.....But if the conference champ goes to Pasadena and if Notre Dame beats Army (as countless subway alumni think it will) the Irish might be pressed for an excuse to decline a bid from some other bowl...And Pitt apparently is headed for the big time again, with six conference schools on its 1947 schedule.... The whole deal seems to be aimed at colleges which frankly recruit players and several pungent words may be said on that subject at the winter N.C.A.A. meeting...But in the meantime the teams for this season's bowl games will be picked without NCAA guidance.

Dirty Crack

Rotund Red Smith, the Giants' line coach who doubles in baseball, was talking seriously about hard plastic football helmets the other day..."Something ought to be done about them," he insisted. "They're dangerous when a player rams his head into a lineman's face."...Scout Jack Lavelle, just a real pal, cut in: "I notice you always wear one in the bull pen. They must be good protection against fly balls."

Do It Again, Mister

When Western Illinois (Macomb) Teachers college JV's played Monmouth JV's in the rain recently, quarterback Clyde Scott of Western dropped back to kick. The snap from center sailed over his head and Clyde picked it up on his own eight yard line..... Four Monmouth linemen were coming at him with unpleasant intensions, so Scot dashed between them, skidded to a stop and then booted the ball 60 yards downfield...That was a heck of a play in any game.

Coach Boyer Drills Squad of 23 Prexy Cage Hopefuls

Coach D. N. Boyer has been drilling a squad of 23 basketball hopefuls at the Edison junior high school in practices which got under way last week. The courtsters will not be in the limelight until the grid season is over but until then they are getting into shape and sharpening up their accuracy.

The turnout at present is only about one-third of what Coach Boyer is expecting, the rest of the players will be out as soon as football season is over. The boys out for football should not take too much time to get into condition as they have been getting that on the gridiron.

Coach Boyer will have approximately three weeks in which to shape up his squad between the termination of football and the season's opener with Delaware Willis.

Fields and Riley are the two lettermen back from last year's squad and the prospects are of having a team with greater height than last season. The schedule this year calls for 15 contests, two more than last season, seven of them to be played on the Edison floor before the alloted 250 spectators. The schedule will be:

Nov. 29 Delaware, here
Dec. 3 Bexley, away.
Dec. 10 Bucyrus, away.
Dec. 14, Columbus West, here.
Dec. 21 Monroe, here

FORMER AKRON PUG LOSES ROUSING FIGHT

By The Associated Press

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 30—Joe Kahut, 182, Portland, Ore., won a 10-round decision over Freddie Schott, 214, of Paterson, N. J., in a rousing fight at the Olympic auditorium last night. The decision of the referee and two judges was unanimous.

Schott entered the ring a slight betting favorite over the Oregonian.

Outweighed 32 pounds, and with a much shorter reach, Kahut had a hard time getting in close to the towering easterner, who formerly fought out of Akron, O.

The first round was all Schott and it looked like his smaller opponent was in for an early beating. But the wiry Kahut outboxed and in several close exchanges outslugged the heavy - armed Schott.

Schott left the ring with a bad cut under his left eye. Kahut was unmarked except for a bruised left side from the hammering blows.

"Lineman of Week" Barely Made Game

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Oct. 30 — Windell Williams, end on the Rice university football team, injured his ankle in practice a week ago. It didn't look like he would play against Texas.

But, just like in a storybook, he stayed with the team's trainer for hours on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday determined to play. He achieved his objective in such startling fashion that today he was selected as the "Lineman of the Week" in this fourth Associated Press poll of the season.

Able to play only on the offense (his ankle wasn't strong enough to stand battering on defense) Williams caught two touchdown passes. On the first touchdown he ran into a fence and hurt his wrist so badly he had to leave. But later he came back to snare the pigskin for his second TD, a feat that tumbled Texas out of the unbeaten and untied ranks in a major grid upset.

Williams thus joined Walter "Piggy" Barnes, of Louisiana State; Burr Baldwin, UCLA; and Bernie Gallagher, of Pennsylvania, who gained the lineman award in previous weeks.

Forecaster Thinks It Will Be Northwestern 27, Ohio State 13 Saturday

Illini, Irish, Michigan, Indiana and Wisconsin Also Get Nod

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN
Associated Press Sports Forecaster

CHICAGO, Oct. 30—Here's another fling at trying to predict the unpredictable major midwestern football fortunes Saturday:

Northwestern 27, Ohio State 13—With the Buckeyes bouncing back into contention after walloping Minnesota 39-9—the same team that Northwestern was hard pressed to defeat 14-7 two weeks ago—this homecoming engagement should be the Wildcats' toughest test thus far. . . . Northwestern's line, which held Michigan's running attack to a net of 59 yards will face such Buckeye backfield aces as Joe Whisler who has tallied 42 points this season, Alex Verdova, Bob Brugge, Jerry Krall and Tommy James. . . . The Wildcats can counter with the passing of four quarterbacks, led by Jerry Carle, and the running of Vic Schwal, Art Murakowski and Frank Aschenbrenner who have rolled up 592 yards on 99 carries in three conference outings. . . . Northwestern appears to have the line and the offensive power to remain undefeated this week. . . .

Illinois 20, Iowa 14—This is purely a shot in the dark. . . . The Illini began to live up to preseason promise by upsetting Michigan 13-9 while the Hawkeyes were being trounced 41-6 by Notre Dame. . . . The Iowa coach, Dr. Eddie Anderson, has a job on his hands getting his team "up" for this important conference clash, which is also the Hawkeyes' homecoming. . . . The Illini appear to be clicking with the backfield of Paul Patterson, Julie Rykovich, Perry Moss and Russ Steger and are definitely buoyed for this game to keep in the running for the Big Nine crown. . . .

Michigan 21, Minnesota 7—The Wolverine's line, considerably outweighed, has been drilling all week on the art of outcharging and outspeeding the Gophers and much of the game's outcome probably will rest on play of the forwards. . . . Michigan also had the good news that fullback Bob Wiese, injured in the Illinois tussle, will be ready for service against Minnesota. . . . After being floored 39-9 by Ohio State it is unlikely the Gophers have the steam to get past Michigan, which still has title ambitions. . . .

Wisconsin 26, Purdue 13—The Badgers have lost their last three games against Purdue, but this should be their turn to win. . . . With an open date last week, they've had a chance to build up for this one after losing to a rallying team two weeks ago. . . . The Badgers, like the Boilermakers, are fairly hard hit with injuries. . . . They'll be minus seven reserve players and their best punter. . . .

Indiana 27, Pitt 7—For the second successive Saturday, the Hoosiers—who lost their last conference game 13-0 to Iowa—meet outside opposition. . . . After piling it on Nebraska, 27-7, they should run up a matching score, or better against Pitt, which was edged 10-8 by Purdue last week. . . .

Notre Dame 42, Navy 13—A good warmup for the Irish-Army game the following Saturday. . . . Navy should be an easy victim No. 5 on the Notre Dame list. . . .

Marquette 14, Detroit 13—The Hilltoppers figure to be at full strength for the first time this season as they shoot for their fifth victory over Detroit in 13 starts since 1920. . . .

Kentucky 14, Michigan State 7—The Spartans are whipping up a strong aerial attack, but it doesn't promise to be enough to overcome the Southerners' balanced offense.

EXECUTIVE'S DEATH TO BE INVESTIGATED

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Oct. 30—Coroner Samuel R. Gerber today sought to establish the cause of the death of Howard B. Carpenter, 64, retired Republic Steel Corp. executive who apparently expired three days before his body was found in bed at his Shaker Heights home yesterday.

Police were called by a real estate agent who entered the house to investigate why Carpenter failed to keep an appointment concerning the sale of his property Sunday. A Sunday newspaper was untouched on the doorstep.

Beginning his career in steel as a blast furnace laborer in Pittsburgh, Carpenter rose to the position of assistant vice president of Republic Steel in charge of all production before his retirement in 1944. In the interim, he had been superintendent of the Cambria Steel Co.'s core plant at Johnstown, Pa.; general manager of the Colorado Fuel and Iron Co. steel works at Pueblo, Colo., and manager of Republic Iron and Steel Co.'s Youngstown district from 1928 until he was named manager of the Corrigan-McKinney plant here in 1935 following its merger with Republic.

He was the inventor of a coal drier used in coal cleaning plants for 25 years.

Marion, Union Co. Wounded Vets Receive Cars from U. S.

Two partially disabled veterans, one from Marion county and one from Union county, have obtained new cars this month as gifts from a grateful government.

They are among the first veterans in this vicinity to receive cars under the act passed by congress in August providing for government purchase of cars for veterans of World War II who have lost use of either leg.

The veterans are Ivan Ralph of Green Camp and David E. Reed of Richwood. Ralph suffered amputation of his right leg above the knee after he was hit by a delayed action bomb in Italy in 1943. Reed lost his right leg when he was wounded by shellfire in France in 1945.

Models Chosen

Ralph has obtained a 1946 Mercury sedan coupe from McKinney Motor Sales. The only alteration needed was installation of an automatic clutch.

Reed chose a 1946 Oldsmobile club sedan which he received at the Oldsmobile Sales and Service on West Center street. On this car the brake pedal and accelerator were moved so that he could operate them with his left foot. A hand operated dimmer switch also was installed.

Mr. Ralph entered service on April 5, 1943. He served with the 67th anti-aircraft battalion in Italy. During the battle at Venafro, Italy, Nov. 28, 1943, he was wounded and it was necessary to amputate his right leg. He was hospitalized 11 months, six of which were spent in hospitals in Africa. He was flown to Africa from Italy in an Army hospital plane. Later he was brought to the United States in a hospital ship. He was sent to Percy Jones hospital, Battle Creek, Mich., at which place he was fitted with an artificial leg. Pfc. Ralph was discharged Oct. 14, 1944. Early in 1944 he was decorated with the Purple Heart.

Mr. Ralph was married before entering service, and he and Mrs. Ralph are the parents of two sons. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Wade Ralph of Green Camp.

Since discharge Mr. Ralph has been engaged in electrical wiring of houses and farm buildings and other general maintenance work. He is on the pension roll of the veterans administration.

Mr. Reed is a Richwood school district bus driver. He is married and has two children.

File Applications with VA

Officials at the Veterans Administration office here, through which application for a car must be made, point out that a veteran need not be an amputee to receive a car. Total paralysis in either leg also qualifies a veteran.

Veterans may choose any type of car they wish. Only restriction is a maximum cost of $1,600. Most automobile companies set aside special pools of cars for veterans and there is no delay in delivery. Most also furnish kits to adapt the machine to any type of disability.

Disabled World War I veterans are eligible for immediate delivery under several companies' plans. They must, however, buy the cars themselves; the government's offer applies only to World War II veterans.

BIG NINE CONFIDENT OF ROSE BOWL GAME

Northwestern vs. UCLA May Be Jan. 1 Scorecard.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Oct. 30—The Western conference felt fairly certain today that it would be represented in the 1947 Rose Bowl.

Ballots from the nine member schools voting on a five-year tie-up with the Pacific Coast conference were scheduled to be turned in by Nov. 15 to Professor Frank Richart of Illinois, secretary of the conference faculty committee.

The 5-4 majority to carry the plan has already been assured with Purdue, Iowa, Ohio State, Michigan and Indiana reporting in the affirmative. Northwestern and Wisconsin have yet to ballot. Minnesota's senate has been reported to have joined Illinois on the negative side.

"Once the official votes are tabulated, our faculty representatives may meet, or get in touch with, the faculty representatives of the Pacific Coach conference to confer on details," said K. L. Wilson, Big Nine commissioner. "I see no reason why everything can't be worked out in time for Big Nine participation in the game this Jan. 1."

At present, Northwestern and U.C.L.A. appear to have the best chance of competing in the Rose Bowl, but the Western conference championship is far from settled. Northwestern is the current leader, but Ohio State, its opponent Saturday, Illinois, Iowa and Michigan are very much in the running. Illinois and Iowa also meet Saturday, narrowing the title race down considerably.

Wild Scoring Game Seen As Buck Squad Emphasizes Speed

Leading Ground Gainers Tangle as Wildcats Meet Scarlet and Gray.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Oct. 30 — A wild scoring game may be in the offing for some 47,000 Homecoming fans at Northwestern Saturday, as the Wildcats, topping the Western conference in total offense, tangle with Ohio State, ranked second in yards gained by rushing and passing.

However, it's hard to forecast a score on yardage statistics. Ohio State proved that point last week against Minnesota. The Buckeyes recorded identical yardage totals by rushing and passing, but Ohio State won the game six touchdowns to one.

Northwestern, seeking to maintain its conference lead, has an average net gain of 325.7 yards per game, with Ohio State second with 308. From there the statistical chart for total offense shows a sharp downward trend. Michigan is third with 266.5 yards and Indiana fourth with 258.

Northwestern's total is based on an average of 245 yards per game by rushing and 80.7 by passing. The second best rushing average belongs to Iowa with 212.7 while the Bucks are third with 188.3.

Top aining team by passing is Indiana, which has a team completion of better than 10 out of 22 passes per game for an average gain of 135.75 yards. The Buckeyes are second in this department with an average of 106.7 yards, while Michigan is third with 97.

Both Ohio State and Northwestern's completion average are the same—each connecting with five out of 12 tosses per game.

Defensively, Iowa's line boasts the best record, holding opponents to 124 yards per game by rushing. Indiana has strung up the best pass defense, allowing foes an average gain of only 26.25 yards.

Wild Scoring Game Seen As Buck Squad Emphasizes Speed

Game Can Make or Break OSU as Big Nine Title Contender.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 30—Coach Paul Bixler is emphasizing speed in preparing Ohio State for Saturday's game at Northwestern—a contest that can make or break the Bucks' 1946 Western conference chances.

Speed made the Bucks look surprisingly good against Minnesota, Bixler agreed. But Northwestern has a faster defense and a more powerful running attack, he added.

In a workout of nearly two hours yesterday the coach concentrated his charges on blocking and defensive play, with the backs stressing aerial offense and defense.

After the session, Bixler said he intended to "go against the Wildcats with practically the same ball club we used Saturday in the Minnesota game."

That meant he intended to keep George Spencer in the first-string quarterback position to which the Bexley gridder was elevated for the game with the Gophers.

While no serious injuries were reported in the Bucks squad, these second and third string players did not participate in yesterday's drill because of minor hurts: guards Wib Schneider and Ray Deplorro; center Howard Duncan; tackle Jack Wilson, and fullback Dave Templeton.

Mid-term examinations kept several other players out of yesterday's practice. Some junior varsity players were used for the short scrimmage at the end of the drill.

Nel Stewart, the good looking girl from Birmingham, will meet Violet Vlau of Kansas City in a double main attraction at the Marion Armory Thursday night. The fans are still talking about last Thursday's girl match for they saw two girls would wrestle as well as the men and the promoter guarantees that both Miss Stewart and Miss Vlau are just as good if not better grapplers than the ones they saw last Thursday. These girls use all the holds the men use and some in addition even up with some new ones. Their match will be over the ninety minute route with the best two out of three falls to win.
The other main attraction brings back Steve Pesnell, the Bohemian, who has started a nice string of wins at the Marion mat. Manny Leduc, the Spanish thunderbolt from Omaha will try to break Pesnell's string of victories. The opening bout at 8:30 p. m. will be a [illegible]

County Rural Youth Campaign Planned

Plans for a membership drive and activities for their winter program were discussed when officers of the Marion county older rural youth group and representatives of the local school districts met Tuesday night in the office of County Agricultural Agent Arthur H. Smith.

The organization, which now has a membership of approximately 120 rural youth, provides educational and entertainment programs for young people of the county. Representatives from the school districts are attempting to boost the active membership.

Recommendations for the year's program discussed at Tuesday night's meeting will be submitted to a meeting of the group Nov. 21 at the Y.M.C.A. Representatives from Pleasant township will have charge of the program.

Plans also were made to send two county representatives to an older rural youth conference to be held at Southern hotel, Columbus Nov. 1 and 2. Miss Hazel Clunk of Waldo and Miss Alice Price of Claridon, will be the local delegates. The state meeting is sponsored by members of the state club department.

TEACHERS TO ATTEND COLUMBUS MEETING

District Sessions Set for Friday and Saturday.

Teachers from Marion and the county will join other teachers from the district at the 75th annual session of the Central Ohio Teachers' association Friday and Saturday, Nov. 1-2, in Columbus. Schools in the city and county will be closed all day Friday to enable teachers to attend the meeting. Several teachers, instead of going to the convention, are planning to visit other schools in Ohio and learn about the classes there in which they are interested.

The Central Ohio association, organized in 1868, comprises about 9,000 teachers and administrators, and has omitted its fall convention only three times since its organization.

General sessions, to be held Friday morning in Memorial hall Loew's Ohio theater, will have as speakers Dr. William F. Russell, dean of Teachers' college, Columbia university, describing "Education of the Conqueror" and Vincent Sheean, author and journalist telling of "The Problems of the War and of the Peace." Dr. Ralph W. Sockman, pastor of Christ Church in New York City, will address the Friday night session on "Date With Destiny," and at the final general and business session Saturday morning, Robert St. John, radio commentator and war correspondent, will discuss "Where Are We Going Now?"

Friday afternoon, 31 departmental meetings will be held in various hotels, schools and churches throughout Columbus and will consist of addresses and discussions. Music by groups from Columbus schools will be a feature of several sessions.

market. The same is true all over the south.

"When the prices began going down, the banks started to call their loans. Speculators were forced to put their cotton on the market. Besides, many speculators who had no loans simply got caught and had to liquidate. Any selling on the market causes some other selling, and the process grew like a snowball."

Some sources here said another influence which might have depressed the market was the insistence of banks that mills and others who had mortgaged spot cotton stocks should immediately "hedge" by selling futures.

Solon Urges Decontrol To Stop Cotton Plunge

By The Associated Press

VIENNA, Ga., Oct. 30—Senator George (D-Ga) today urged immediate price decontrol on manufactured cotton goods "to stabilize the cotton market."

George said he had wired Reconversion Director Steelman urging that the decontrol be put into effect immediately.

The recent drop in cotton prices and the closing of the country's principal cotton markets is due mainly, the senator said, to inability of mills under OPA control to quote prices for future delivery of goods for more than 120 days.

"As a result," he said, "they are limiting their purchases at a time when the new crop is coming in and the supply is heaviest."

Truman Pledges U. S. Aid to Cotton Mart

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30—Rep. Sparkman (D-Ala) quoted President Truman today as saying it is "the purpose of the government to do everything possible to stabilize the cotton market."

Sparkman told reporters the President had authorized him to make the statement after the Alabaman urged him to utilize "whatever war powers necessary" to prevent further collapse in cotton prices.

"The President told me he was working on means to stabilize the market and was conferring with government advisers on plans for action," Sparkman said at the White House.

MARKET REGISTERS DOWNWARD SLIDE

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Oct. 30—A downward slide steadily gained momentum in the stock market today after an irregular opening. Volume picked up as prices were marked down.

Leaders in the industrial and other groups lost fractions to five points and more near the fourth hour. Steel issues did better than most others.

The market weathered news of suspension of trading in cotton futures in fairly good style. Brokers reported, however, that the suspension acted as a definite brake on demand, especially in view of the fact that cotton futures have tumbled around $60 a bale in one of the fastest break in prices on record, from the 28-year highs hit earlier this month.

Customers largely ignored the flood of favorable earnings report and divided actions. Steels, though, appeared to benefit from the favorable quarterly report of big steel.

Unchanged to around a point lower were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Republic, and Youngstown Sheet.

Also in the minus column were American Telephone, Chrysler, General Motors, Goodrich, U. S Gypsum, Southern Pacific, American Smelting, Caterpillar Tractor, Douglas Aircraft, Kennecott, Montgomery Ward, General Motors, and American Airlines.

Bonds tended downward. Grains at Chicago held steady.

Losers in the curb included Aluminum Co, American Gas, Pantepec, Humble Oil, American Cyanamid and Creole Petroleum.

TWO SOUGHT IN OHIO ABDUCTION ARRESTED

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Oct. 30 — Two 18-year-old Negroes wanted in Fort Wayne, Ind., on a charge of kidnaping an elderly Ohio couple on Oct. 24 were arrested by the FBI and Chicago police today on the South Side.

George R. McSwain, Chicago FBI chief, identified the men as Albert Webester and Henry Black, both of Nashville, Tenn. McSwain gave the following account.

The two youths, employed as section hands on the Pennsylvania railroad in Fort Wayne, stole an automobile on Oct. 24. While driving the car near Van Wert, O., they purposely crashed into an automobile occupied by Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Sherrick, both 70, of Convoy, O.

Overpowering the elderly couple and taking over the Sherrick car, the two youths headed toward Ft Wayne with the Sherricks as prisoners.

Enroute Sherrick was knocked unconscious.

In Ft. Wayne, Mrs. Sherrick leaped from the car and Black and Webester both fled.

The FBI filed a complaint Oct. 28 at Ft. Wayne charging kidnaping against the pair, McSwain reported. He described Webester as an escapee from the State Training School at Pikeville, Tenn.

County Dairy Agency Studies Breeding Plan

Further plans for an artificial breeding program for Marion county dairy herds will be made Friday when directors of the Marion Dairy Service Cooperative travel to Tiffin to observe the program in operation at the district artificial breeding farm there.

The Tiffin farm would service Marion county if such a project were adopted by the cooperative. Directors of the cooperative plan a meeting following their Tiffin tour to work out details of the program. Marion county is the only county in this district without such a program. The service would be carried out as an addition to the coopative's present work of providing dairy farmers with monthly butterfat tests for their herds.

UN

caught off-guard, but Philip Noel-Baker, Britain's graying, slightly stooped chief delegate promptly rose and objected that there was neither time nor preparation for such a debate. Molotov insisted but was overruled by Spaak.

His insistence on the point, however, left no doubt that pushing the disarmament plan would almost certainly be Russia's primary concern during the remainder of this session. The four points of his plan are:

1. The general assembly should declare that it considers a "general reduction of armaments necessary."

2. It should particularly call for "banning the manufacture and use of atomic energy for military purposes." This would put the United Nations on record as demanding that the United States stop making atomic bombs.

3. The assembly should call on the security council to carry out those two objectives.

4. The assembly should also call on all member governments to cooperate in the arms reduction and atomic bomb ban projects.

Occupies Small Portion

But the armaments plan occupied only a small portion of Molotov's 7,000-word text and in the rest he made these major points bearing on Russia's attitude toward the United Nations, its past work and its current debates.

Veto—Success of the campaign to abolish it "would mean in practice the liquidation of the United Nations organization because this principle (that the great powers must be unanimous in the security council) is the cornerstone of the organization."

Atomic control—The American plan by which the United States would give up the bomb only after international safeguards are established has a "certain degree of selfishness" and is "based on the desire to secure for the United States monopolist possession of the atomic bomb."

Split between Russia and the Western Powers—The "imperialists" in the Western countries "see the greatest obstacle to the realization of their expansionist plans in the Soviet Union against which they, in their impotent rage, would be prepared to unchain all dogs."

Troops abroad—The presence of troops in other than former enemy countries (as in China and Greece) "gives rise to serious uneasiness among the people and world public opinion."

Security council—Its refusal to act against Franco Spain was a "gross error which is bound to undermine its prestige" and its refusal to dismiss finally the Iranian case against Russia displayed "an unwarranted but openly unfavorable attitude toward the USSR."

United Nations outlook—Existing shortcomings in the UN should be exposed "to see to it that they do not occur in the future." United Nations action on the veto and disarmament proposals and the way in which it handles the conflict between the Soviet Union and the Western "imperialists" will provide a measure of its ability to succeed.

Molotov Stresses Atomic Differences

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Oct. 30—Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov's demand before the United Nations assembly yesterday for an absolute ban on the manufacture of atomic bombs stressed one of the major points made by the Soviet Union in its refusal to accept the United States plan for control of atomic energy.

Issuing a call for general disarmament, Molotov said:

"The implementation of the decision on the reduction of armaments should include as a primary objective the banning of the manufacture and use of atomic energy for military purposes."

This carried out the line consistently followed by Russian Delegate Andrei A. Gromyko in the debates of the atomic energy commission.

In attacking the United States position, Molotov said the Baruch plan "is based on the desire to secure for the United States the monopolistic possession of the atomic bomb."

The American plan for international control of atomic production in all countries he viewed as an attempt to "protect in a veiled form the monopolistic position of the United States in this field." The U. S. plan does not provide for any immediate cessation of the manufacture of bombs.

Molotov then cautioned that science and scientists cannot be put in a box and kept under lock and key and followed up with this warning:

"It should not be forgotten that atomic bombs used by one side may be opposed by atomic bombs and something else from the other side and then the obvious collapse of all present day calculations of certain conceited but short witted people will become all too apparent."

2 More London Gem, Fur Thefts Reported

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Oct. 30—Two more jewel and fur thefts, including the $4,800 robbery of 20-year-old Princess Hilda of Bavaria, were disclosed today.

Spiro Constantinidi, commercial counsellor of the Greek embassy, reported the loss of $6,000 worth of furs and jewelry and $1,200 in wines and whisky in the second of the two robberies, both of which occurred several days ago.

Scotland Yard forged its first break in the spreading wave of jewel robberies with the arrest of a man and woman who were charged with robbing Princess Hilda's Kensington flat.

Little Change in Egg Prices Held in Prospect

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Oct 30—Little change in egg and poultry prices is in prospect in the near future despite full meat counters, J. C Siler of Ashland, president of the Ohio Baby Chick association, said today.

Here for the association's 24th annual convention, Siler summed up the situation in that familiar word—shortages.

An estimtaed eight per cent national shortage in poultry was blamed by Siler on government feed restrictions which, he said, two months ago caused numerous chicken raisers to go out of business, and unusual demands for poultry during the recent meat famine.

He said the lack of adequate numbers of laying hens would cause a shortage of eggs to continue for some time.

Ohio is better off than most states, he asserted, because there are 600 hatcheries in the state.

tour. He is not scheduled to return to Washington until after Nov. 6.

Plans To Proceed

Despite the timing of Lewis' wage demands—hitting right at the peak of the government's efforts to junk both price and wage controls and still discourage industrial strife—the administration was reported ready to get rid of the wage stabilization board as it now stands.

Under the plan most discussed, controls over prices and pay would be continued for the time being in certain key industries such as coal, steel and automobiles in each of which threats of new wage demands have been raised.

Reconversion Director John R. Steelman's 12-man advisory board was said to have recommended such a procedure to President Truman yesterday, calling for replacement of the present three-way (public-industry-labor) wage stabilization board with some other smaller panel.

Milwaukee Police Held in Reserve at Allis-Chalmers

By The Associated Press

More than 100 Milwaukee city police were held in reserve for emergency duty today at the huge strike-bound Allis Chalmers company plant in West Allis, Wis., where fighting has broken out between pickets and workers the last two days.

The violence on the picket lines, the first serious trouble since the strike started six months ago, resulted in Sheriff George Hanley requesting Milwaukee policemen to augment his force of 95 deputies and 30 West Allis policemen. In a telegram to Governor Walter S Goodland of Wisconsin Hanley said "the gravity of the situation jeopardizes the maintenance of law and order throughout the rest of the (Milwaukee) county."

Five men were arrested after yesterday's violence and were charged with "preventing the pursuit of work."

In Detroit, Chrysler Corporation, one of the automobile industry's "Big Three" and the CIO United Auto Workers union opened wage negotiations. A union spokesman indicated that the UAW is not posing a strike threat at this time. The union has not announced an exact sum to be sought but a spokesman said a "substantial" increase would be expected.

The CIO United Rubber, Cork, and Plaster workers of America said it would ask a 26 cents an hour wage hike for its 193,000 members. A spokesman said the proposal, based on a 40-hour week, could set the pattern for other CIO unions. He said negotiations with major rubber companies would start soon.

In the shipping strike, now confined to the West coast after settlement of the dispute on the East and Gulf coasts, negotiations were broken off between the Pacific American Shipowners association and the CIO Marine Engineers Beneficial association. The operators rejected the hiring formula which ended the Atlantic coast walkout.

The AFL Masters, Mates and Pilots threatened to extend their month-long west coast strike to army troop and cargo ships operated by private companies.

CPA CHARTS ITS EXIT

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30—The civilian production administration, beginning to chart its exit from the federal scene, today prepared to cast off two more wartime controls over industry. Highly placed officials reported that CPA Chief John D. Small shortly will revoke order L-99, which "freezes" cotton looms to the production of essential fabrics, and L-101, which limits the size and shape of glass containers.

Moore, veteran of the Bataan death march, to command army forces in the western Pacific (principally the Philippines) with headquarters in Manila. Appointment of Moore was interpreted in many quarters here as an effort to assist the Filipinos and Americans resume friendly relations.

NEW YORK, Oct. 30—More and more, sports activity via television is on the increase in this football season. The latest addition is the setting up of a two-story circuit to relay three events at Philadelphia.

Under an arrangement between NBC's WNBT in New York and Philco's WPTZ in Philadelphia the coaxial cable will be used for pictures originated by WPTZ. The first will be the professional game Sunday afternoon between the New York Giants and the Philadelphia Eagles.

Later will be two college games, Army vs. Penn on Nov. 16 and Penn vs. Cornell on Thanksgiving.

This hookup is to be similar to that in effect last year for the annual Army-Navy classics except that the latest type of highly sensitive cameras will be in operation.

Concluding broadcasts tonight from N. Y. Herald Tribune Forum: MBS 8 Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower; MBS 9:15 Philip Noel-Baker of Great Britain.

They started Monday with Speaker Sam Rayburn, will continue tonight at 9:15 with Postmaster General Robert E. Hannegan and conclude Friday night at the same time with Sen. Scott Lucas of Illinois.

THE UNSEEN AUDIENCE

By H. T. Webster

LOVE'S FAIR HORIZON

By ADELE GARRISON

"OF COURSE," I told Harry Underwood. "Where am I to go, and what's the message?"

"Just tell your father that the men are about ready to go," he said, "and that I'm attending to the mechanics of the departure. I wouldn't trouble him, except for two reasons—he may want to give some order to one of them—and one doesn't start any major operation without giving the Chief a chance to muscle in, if he's around."

Nods Comprehension

I nodded my comprehension, and hurried along the brilliantly lighted corridors toward my father's wing. As I neared it—fortunately my footsteps were noiseless—I saw Carolyn and Marion walking in front of me, Marion hanging back of the other girl, and pulling at her arm.

"I didn't know you were coming here, when you said you wanted some air, and Mums let me take you out of the room," she was saying in frightened tones. "Nobody ever comes over here without permission."

"All the more reason for me to barge over here," Carolyn said flippantly. "What do I care for that old dodo's rules? He's like an old czar or a fuehrer with his high and mighty orders.

"Besides," she said, her voice deepening and sobering, "I'm sure he's got my dad in this end of the house—I've mentally checked on all the other rooms, and I'm going to find out what's going on."

"I'm afraid you're not, Carolyn," I said softly behind her, and she whirled on me with a screech that I knew could have been heard inside my father's rooms if they had not been soundproofed.

Humiliation and Distress

"I might have known you'd be snooping around," she said insolently, while Marion's face hung out flags of humiliation and distress.

"Oh, Carolyn! Don't, don't speak that way to Aunt Madge!" she entreated, and I put my hand comfortingly on her shoulder.

"I know you were blameless in this, Darling," I told her. Then I turned to Carolyn.

"Take your choice," I said. "Come back with me now to Aunt Lillian's room, or be carried back by the guards whom I shall summon immediately. Incidentally," as she poised herself for flight, "every outside door in the house is locked. You cannot get out."

She stopped short, and shrugged her shoulders.

"Okay. You win again. I'll go back with you."

She wheeled, and strode ahead of Marion and ahead of me. But we soon caught up with her, and were abreast when I knocked on Lillian's door.

Not to Blame

"Lillian," I said when she opened it, "I want you to know first, that Marion is not to blame in this. Against her pleadings, Carolyn insisted on going over to the other wing, and was planning to enter it, or try to listen to what is going on there."

"My poor child was just trying to protect her daddy!" Helena shrilled from the bed upon which she was stretched.

"For the next few minutes, until time for supper," I went on, ignoring Helena's outburst, "I wish to lock this door, and the door of the room on the other side of the connecting bathroom. You will not need anything from outside these two rooms and bathroom, will you?"

I addressed myself to Lillian, whose face was crimsoned with indignation which, I knew, was not directed toward her daughter, or me.

"Of course not," she said, and went swiftly to her dressing table, picking up a bunch of keys and bringing them to me.

"You'll find them all there," she said, "and—I'm sorry I was so gullible. It won't happen again."

A Double Meaning

"I'm sure it won't," I said with double meaning, for I was determined that neither of the Brixton women should be left altogether to Lillian's guardianship again.

"Do you mean we're going to be locked in, like criminals?" Helena shrilled again. "Madge Graham—if it takes me the rest of my life, I'll—"

But I did not hear the rest of her threat. I was outside the door, locking both it, and the one of the adjoining room. Then I hurried back to my father's wing.
